TORIES HOLD 196 VOTE MAJORITY IN PARLIAMENT

Expect Labor Party to Quit at Once.

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Picture on back page.)

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
LONDON, Oct. 30.—No such landslide as took place yesterday at the polls has been known in English politics for many generations and no such majority as the Conservative party has won has been known for nearly 100 years. The nearest approach to the present situation was the Khaki election of 1900, after the Boer war, when the Liberals were swept from power. The only instance of a majority as large as the present one was in the parliament of 1832.

It is now considered likely that Stanley Baldwin will assume the premiership next week, as the Labor government is considering resigning at once. Late tonight, with nearly all the constituencies heard from, the Conservatives were assured of a majority of 196 seats in parliament over all other parties. The final returns will not be completed for several days, but it is certain that this majority will be enlarged rather than decreased.

The figures are as follows: Conservatives, 398; Labor, 149; Liberals, 40; and the other parties, 13.

Lloyd George Eliminated.
A feature of the election was the practical elimination of the Liberal party, and, incidentally, the future of David Lloyd George's plan to make himself indispensable to the Conservatives. They do not need him now and would not welcome him as a recruit, let alone offer him an office. His future seems, therefore, to be that of leader of a small faction for the next four or five years, at any rate.

H. H. Asquith, who was defeated at Paisley, announces that he is not returning from public life, and Sir John Simon, who held his seat in Ipswich, also is a rival of Mr. Lloyd George for the Liberal leadership. Prime Minister MacDonald holds his seat in Aberavon by a decreased majority, while Mr. Lloyd George in Carnarvon, Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, holds his seat, as do most of the other Labor ministers. The casualties among the ministers were: Margaret Bondfield, under secretary of labor; F. W. Jowett, first commissioner of works; William Leach, a member of the air ministry, and Frank Hodges, civil lord of the admiralty.

Four Women Elected.
The women fared badly on the whole. Lady Astor, the Duchess of Atholl, and Mrs. Philipson, Conservatives, were re-elected, and also a new woman, Mrs. Ellen Wilkinson. The casualties among the women were: Margaret Bondfield, under secretary of labor; F. W. Jowett, first commissioner of works; William Leach, a member of the air ministry, and Frank Hodges, civil lord of the admiralty.

Interest has now switched to the next government and when it will come into being. On the latter point J. H. Thomas, colonial secretary, announced before the election that the Laborites did not intend to resign until they had met parliament and been defeated.

Then neither Mr. Thomas nor any one else anticipated such a complete Conservative victory, and Mr. Thomas intended by forcing a division to create a Liberal split. That now is out of the realm of practical politics, and it is possible that the Laborites may reconsider their previous plan and resign at once, giving the Conservatives time to organize a government before parliament meets on Nov. 11.

Tong Murder Prelude to an Armistice

Nation-wide warfare between the On Leong and Hip Sing, rival Chinese gangs, was halted yesterday when a two weeks' armistice was effected in New York through the efforts of Chinese Consul General Chang and leading Chinese merchants from many cities of this country.

During the two weeks it is understood that Chinese leaders will attempt to stop to patch up differences as to assure a "permanent peace." It is said that Judge Albert Talley of New York may be asked to act as an arbitrator.

Killing Punctuates Discourse.
At the moment that Consul General Chang was about to sign the truce document, however, an incident occurred which almost ended the labors of the peace makers. The crack of a pistol almost under the window of the building wherein sat the conferees ended the life of a Hip Sing tong man. The conferees, hurried out, found the dead man and nothing else.

Since early in October the tongs have fought and it is estimated fifteen men have died.

Four Murders in Chicago.
Four of the murders occurred in Chicago, two in Milwaukee, one in Detroit, several in Mexico. There were killings in New York and other eastern cities.

In no case were police able to obtain any clew of value as to the assassin or even tangible information as to what the war was about.

The origin of the trouble, however, generally is thought to center in the affairs of Chin Jack Lam, wealthy member of the Chicago Chinese colony and who formerly conducted a business on Archer avenue.

Seems Cause of Trouble.
That Jack Lam and his business troubles with other Chinamen largely are to blame is conjectured from the fact that the first killing took place shortly after legal action was begun against Jack Lam in Cleveland. It is that Jack said Lam, now a fugitive under warrants charging extortion, was a member of the On Leong tong, but later a Hip Sing.

The slaying of Willie Kie Kai, a partner in the "Madison Square Garden," 4755 Madison street, on Oct. 20, was the high spot in the war in Chicago. On the same night numerous assaults occurred in various parts of the city. The day before the proprietor of a large Chinese loop restaurant had received a letter demanding $10,000 on pain of death.

The mercury climbed higher in Chicago yesterday than on any Oct. 30th for thirty-six years. At the middle of the afternoon the official weather bureau thermometers registered 76.3 degrees.

Oct. 30, 1888, the temperature rose to 76.3, a tenth of a point higher than yesterday's mark.

Loop winds set dust swirling through the streets and into the eyes of shoppers and loop workers yesterday. Fall topcoats disappeared. It was as warm as midsummer.

$340,000 Gift by Senator W.B. McKinley

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Gifts for five Presbyterian colleges in Illinois totaling $1,366,000 and $100,000 for St. Luke's hospital were announced yesterday.

The donation for the colleges was announced last evening at the Presbyterian union banquet at the Auditorium hotel.

United States Senator William B. McKinley contributed $340,000, announced yesterday.

The Patten's gift will be in the form of income from the land on which the University club stands, at Monroe street and Michigan avenue.

Form of Patten Gift.
Other sums, although smaller, were announced as coming from many persons interested in the raising of a total of $1,000,000 for the Presbyterian educational fund.

The largest beneficiary of Senator McKinley's gift will be the student center at the Illinois state university at Champaign-Urbana, which receives $200,000.

Senator McKinley contributed several years ago $60,000 to erect a Presbyterian church for the students and that was the beginning of a student center. College which will share in the Patten gift are: Blackburn college, Carlinville; Lincoln college, Lincoln; James Millikin university, Decatur; Illinois college, Jacksonville, and Lake Forest college, Lake Forest.

Memorial for Dr. H. B. Favill.
The $150,000 contributed for St. Luke's hospital is for the establishment of a medical research laboratory which will be named in honor of Dr. Henry Baird Favill, formerly in charge of the hospital.

Under the plans $125,000 of the fund will be added to the $250,000 building fund for the new nineteen-story addition to the hospital and $20,000 for the purchase of laboratory equipment.

Cyrus H. McCormick and Horace E. Tenny are in charge of the Favill fund.

FORD TELLS IT: WHY HE'S ALL FOR COOLIDGE

'Short on Promises; Long on Action.'

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—A telegram from Henry Ford endorsing President Coolidge for election was made public tonight by the Republican national committee.

Sent to Arthur Brisbane, editor in chief of the Hearst newspapers, in response to a request by the latter for a statement, the telegram was sent to the President by Mr. Brisbane and obtained at the White House by the national committee for publication.

Text of Message.
Its text follows:
"I support Calvin Coolidge and confidently expect his election for the following reasons:
"Our government has been freer of the influence of the money powers during Calvin Coolidge's brief administration than for a long time before.
"He understands the difference between American business and money power. American business is the means by which we earn our living and supplies the need of the country. Agriculture, manufacture, and transportation are its three pillars. It is constructive. The money power represents the exploiting, gambling, and destructive counterfeits of business.
"Two Systems of Business.
"Two systems of business confront each other in this country—production for use as against production for profits only. Calvin Coolidge is on the side of productive service and prosperity.
"He is increasing the number of jobs in this country by drawing back into business the monies that have been driven out by high taxes. The greatest prosperity will not arrest Calvin Coolidge's drive against high taxes.
"He is sprung from the old American stock which went south and west and fixed our American course, and he will hold the government steady to that course.
"He is short on promises and long on action.
"In our business we prefer the doers to the talkers. I want as good or better service for the nation as we insist upon in the Ford Motor company.
"Keep Election Out of Congress.
"Why all this talk about throwing the election into congress? Who would want that except those who cannot hope to control the people, but could easily control congress? Such a mistake would indicate that Americans are not intelligent enough to decide an election—and that is not the case. Americans are able to elect their own President, and they are on guard against all efforts to cheat them out of that right.
"I believe in Calvin Coolidge regardless of party because he is an honest, able man, with a task that deserves the help of all forward minded men regardless of party. I like him because he knows how to think, because he can see clearly, and because the politicians do not like him."
"HENRY FORD."

Flames Sweep N. U. Campus in High Wind

A student's Halloween prank gave all Evanston and Northwestern university a bad fire scare early this morning when an enormous pile of old lumber and other rubbish in the quadrangle just north of Patten gymnasium was set on fire during the high wind. Several fraternity houses to the north of the gymnasium and the Dearborn observatory were periled by the flames. The entire fire department was called out and every student in the vicinity hurried to the scene.

For two weeks students have been building a gigantic pile of inflammable stuff to be burned as a bonfire tonight to welcome home the "old grads" coming back for the Northwestern-Indiana football game tomorrow. It consisted of old doors, boxes, barrels, and broken boards. It was forty feet in diameter and towered thirty-five feet high. Shortly after midnight some one applied a match and within a few minutes that entire section of Evanston was lighted up.

Five Automobiles Burned.
To add to the danger five Ford automobiles were run into the pile and burned. As the gasoline in the tanks of the machines exploded the embers were blown in every direction and carried by the high southwest wind directly toward the fraternity houses. These included the Phi Kappa Psi, Sigma Chi, and Beta Theta Psi and Delta Upsilon houses. Other buildings imperiled were the Haven, Foster, and Hinman houses occupied as dormitories.

Drought Adds to Peril.
The recent drought also added to the peril. The quadrangle was covered with dry grass and leaves and the flames soon covered its area. Prompt work by the fire department, which on its arrival began throwing streams of water on the roofs of imperiled buildings, prevented any damage in that direction. The pile burned itself out and the "old grads" will not be able to see the "Indiana Jinx" burned to night.

PLAN SANE HALLOWEEN
You can sit back in perfect comfort this Halloween. It is to be "safe and sane." You won't have to worry about the gate or the location of the ashcan in the morning. Even the windows will escape the fantastic hieroglyphics of days gone by.

All this will come true if young America can be cured as planned. Throughout the entire city churches, business organizations, schools, and park commissioners have planned social affairs and old-fashioned parties that are expected to divert the boys and girls from mischief.

In the west park system parties have been arranged at all recreation centers. There will be games, grotesque costumes, bonfires, and marshmallow roasts. Similar programs have been arranged for the public school playgrounds.

HANDS OFF, IS
OHIO'S POLICY
ON KLAN PARADE

Columbus, O., Oct. 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—The state of Ohio will take no action in the proposed parade of the Ku Klux Klan at Niles Saturday afternoon unless trouble of a serious nature develops, in which event "every force" will be used to restore peace, Gov. Victor Donahue decided tonight.

In a letter to Mayor H. C. Kistler of Niles the governor declared: "I stand on my letter to you of Oct. 27, and will hold you to strict accountability." Trouble was forecast following refusal of Kistler to give Knights of the Flaming Circle, an organization opposed to the Klan, a permit to parade.

Asked About Tariff.
When recalled to the witness stand Mr. Butler was examined on his interest in the textile industry of New England and in the tariff. He admitted readily that he had been "very much interested" in the tariff, but said he had never personally presented his views before legislators.

Mr. Undermyer brought out through this witness that James B. Reynolds, manager of the Washington office of the Republican national committee, had formerly represented the textile industry at the national capital.

Mr. Butler and Senator Kilgore (Former-Labor, Minn.) engaged in an academic discussion of the tariff.

"I believe thoroughly in a reasonable protective tariff," said Mr. Butler. "It is a policy which has built this country up and has had a good deal to do with our general prosperity. It affects the prices of manufactured articles directly in a very small degree, but it makes the market and keeps up the standard of living."

Quis La Follette Manager.
The ethics of campaign contributions, from the standpoint of the divorce interest of the contributors and the effect on the electorate, was discussed between Congressman John M. Nelson, manager of the La Follette campaign, and Attorney Weymouth Kirkland.

Mr. Nelson was recalled to explain his latest financial status. He said that on Oct. 29 the Chicago and Washington headquarters had received $245,710. Mr. Kirkland undertook to show that this was only a small part of the money being spent for La Follette.

"This does not represent the railroad men's work,"

"Not the men under L. E. Shepard," (Mr. Shepard had previously

$1,000,000 MAY BE LIMIT FOR CAMPAIGNS

Report to Senate to Ask for Law.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
Legislative action aimed at limiting presidential campaigns of the future to a sum possibly fixed at $1,000,000 is expected to be the chief result of the Borah committee "slush fund" hearings which will close in Chicago today.

Senator Borah is leaving for Washington this afternoon to draw up a report which may be ready by Saturday.

The effect of the present campaign is believed to be small. Republican national headquarters report a stimulus in contributions, particularly those in small amounts.

Unless four mysterious documents which were guardedly produced at yesterday's session by Attorney Samuel Undermyer are corroborated and put in evidence, there does not seem much likelihood of any major sensation developing or "slush fund" charges being proved.

Asks "Mystery Question."
Mr. Undermyer questioned William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee, about the four papers, "purporting to be copies" of bank documents after he had asked an unexplained question about the Frank National bank of Washington.

Chairman Borah warned him that the committee would assume no responsibility for the papers becoming public until certain corroborative evidence comes in.

"At this time," said Senator Borah, "the committee takes no stock in this matter. If it gets to a point where some one identifies these papers, we will permit them to go in. There is no criticism of Mr. Undermyer's motives in this."

Mr. Butler put on his glasses and carefully examined the papers.

"I know nothing whatever about them," he said, after reading them deliberately.

Mr. Undermyer pocketed the papers.

Mr. Undermyer on the opening of the session made a formal protest to the committee against the characterization of himself and the description of the scene between himself and William Y. Hodges in THE TRIBUNE of yesterday.

He said that no such performance as was stated in that article ever took place. Chairman Borah at one stage of the hearing yesterday intimated that the committee might have to take examination of witnesses into its own hands.

testified that his organization had spent about $15,000 on the campaign. "Nor the work of the men of the American Federation of Labor."

"No."

"It does not include the work of the Socialist party?"

"It is understood there are others besides."

Assess Illinois Miners.

Mr. Nelson said the funds contributed to the Conference for Progressive Political Action, including those from a majority of unions, was included in his report.

"Have you heard that the miners of Illinois were being assessed?"

"I never heard of it."

"That the American Federation of Labor is sending out 2,000,000 leaflets?"

"No."

"Do you know Dante Pierce?"

"Yes."

"He is supporting La Follette?"

"Yes."

"Do you know whether he is getting Wisconsin state printing?"

"I don't know. I understand he publishes a paper in Wisconsin."

"You know a great deal of work is being done that is not included in this budget?"

"Army of Crusaders."

"Yes, I hope by the majority of the American people. La Follette has an army of crusaders."

"Is there any way of estimating the amount spent by the unions?"

"There is much talk, but it has turned out to be grossly exaggerated. Nobody could tell it."

"The railroad men are interested in certain legislation?"

"Yes, as American citizens."

"Just as the men who believe in the tariff?"

"Yes, but there is not the direct money interest there. Their interest is general."

Mr. Nelson said he was led to surmise that the Republicans would have a fund of ten millions.

"When are you going to present your evidence?" asked Mr. Kirkland.

Mr. Nelson said there were elements of danger and unfairness when the presidential fund went beyond $500,000 or one million.

"Permit me to gather three million," he said, "and I assure you that this campaign would be different from what you anticipate. As a legislator I shall do my utmost to put the different classes of people on a par in elections."

Editor Hits Back.

Mr. Untermeyer, taking up the question of direct interest of contributors, drew a sharp distinction between those who would benefit by the Mellon bill and the railroad brotherhoods, who wanted government ownership of roads.

Yet J. Peter, Omaha publisher of German-American papers, was placed on the stand to tell of $10,000 which he received from the Republican national committee for circulating his papers in the northwest territory. He had been attacked by the leading Democratic paper in Omaha for this action and defended himself with vigor before the committee, reading a long statement in which he deplored efforts to handle the German people in political blocs.

"I am an old Republican," he said, "and have always supported the Republican national ticket. I considered this a plain business proposition to reach elements which could not be reached in any other way."

He refused to answer questions as to his circulation and told how he had sent out special agents containing Republican propaganda.

An effort was made to connect Peter with the action of J. A. Lochray, publisher of an Omaha labor paper printed in Peter's plant, in switching from La Follette to Coolidge on Oct. 2. On Oct. 15, Mr. Lochray said, he received $1,000 from Republican National Committee member McCloud of Nebraska for circulating special copies of his paper where they would do the most good.

Men on Letter.

Mr. Sheppard, on the witness stand was questioned about a letter supposed to have gone from him to Fred Stewart, a conductor, in Oakland, Cal., pointing out the danger that Stewart

Mark Ballot to Defeat Small

It is a simple matter for a Republican to vote the straight Republican ticket, except for Governor. Make your mark in the Republican circle, then cross over to the Democratic column and make your mark in the square, in front of the name of NORMAN L. JONES, thus:

FOR PRESIDENT	FOR PRESIDENT
<input type="checkbox"/> Calvin Coolidge	<input type="checkbox"/> HARRY B. MILLER

A cross in the Republican circle at the top of the ticket, and a cross in the square in front of the name of the Democratic candidate, thus: Do not do this. You are not a Republican.

State Headquarters Room 10, North Dearborn, Chicago

Hundreds of thousands of cards, of which the above cut is a facsimile, are being sent through the state by women opposed to Len Small. They show how to vote for Norman L. Jones, the Democratic candidate for governor, in the easiest and surest way by placing a cross in the Republican party circle, as illustrated, and another cross in the square before the name of Norman L. Jones where it appears in the Democratic column.

On the actual ballot to be voted the names of the candidates for Vice President, Presidential electors, United States senator, congressmen-at-large, and district congressmen separate the names of the candidates for President and those for governor.

The card indicates that the Republican candidates' names appear in the first column. This is not true in Cook county, where the Democratic party candidates' names are in the first column. In most of the counties downstate the Republican candidates' names are in the first column, however.

was running in campaigning for Coolidge.

Mr. Sheppard declined to answer any questions concerning the letter on the ground it had nothing to do with contributions and was an inside organization matter. He likened it to the friendly act of a brother pointing the way to one who had gone astray.

Mr. Kirkland, who introduced the letter, interpreted it as a bit of coercion. The committee did not permit the letter to be read.

Frank L. Smith, chairman of the Republican state committee, testified that he had received $73,148 in contributions, of which $40,000 came from the national committee. He said he had no books and could not give the committee the names of contributors. He said the money had been used in supporting the straight Republican ticket, including the national ticket.

THE WASHINGTON INQUIRY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—Leaves assessed by Republican campaign collectors upon postmasters and postoffice employees in Virginia and South Carolina and upon alcohol permittees in New York were testified to today before the senatorial investigation committee.

W. E. Truesler, chairman of the Republican committee for Prince William county, Virginia, introduced a list showing he had made the rounds of the postmasters and postmistresses of small towns in his and neighboring counties and collected sums ranging from $5 to $200 from each.

Under questioning by Senator Caraway (Dem., Ark.), acting chairman, and Attorney Frank P. Walsh, counsel for the La Follette forces, he admitted he had been supplied with a list of names of postal employees by a Mr. Marcus in Richmond, who has charge of gathering funds in the state for the national campaign, and that this list also suggested the amounts to be asked from each postmaster.

Woman Assistant Called On.

Further evidence in the Tolbert case, which was aired in congress last spring, was given in affidavit form by C. S. Doyle, secretary of the United States civil service commission, who made a special investigation of conditions in South Carolina.

From a sheet of affidavits he read one showing that Joseph W. Tolbert, former United States marshal, and his brother, E. R. Tolbert, had sought $200 from a postmaster named Littlejohn to defray the expense of "a trip to Washington to see about his reappointment."

BAR VOTES TO DEFEAT TWO OF SMALL JUDGES

Lawyers' Primary Hits at Miller and Curran.

Gov. Small's favorites on the Republican judicial ticket were singled out for defeat last night by the Chicago Bar association. The result of the primary which has been in progress since Oct. 25 was announced. It showed that two of the Small candidates, one a sitting judge, the other a former judge had fallen by the wayside.

Judge George A. Curran, appointed to a vacancy by Small was the sitting judge who failed to land among the victors in the primary. Harry B. Miller, twice appointed by Small to fill vacancies only to lose his seat later, was the former judge who was beaten.

La Buy Falls to Win.

His defeat was the more significant as only one other sitting judge who was a candidate failed to win. He was Judge Joseph S. La Buy, Democrat, who ran next to last of the twenty-four party nominees for the twelve seats on the Municipal bench. La Buy's defeat had been expected, but there was something of a surprise in the failure of the two Small Republicans to qualify.

The result of the bar primary follows:

Existing Judge, Former Judge, Winner's names in contest.

In general the lawyers followed the advice of the committee on candidates. Chief Justice Olson, who was praised highly, made one of the best showings. Judge Daniel P. Trude, who was declared "exceptionally well qualified," ran second among the candidates for associate judge. Judges Heap, Jones, McKinley, O'Connell, Rooney were all called "well qualified" and all won. George Packard, one of the winners not on the bench, was referred to as "exceptionally well qualified."

Judge La Buy, who ran next to last, was one of the few judges held "not qualified."

No preference was expressed by the committee's report between Miller and Avery. Brothers was preferred to Comerford in the report and Caylor was given a shade over Kelly.

GIVES UP HER 'CAREER' AFTER 3 LONELY DAYS

Three days of search after a career, the instant living in a bare furnished room, convinced Louise Schopp, pretty 17 year old high school girl of Oak Park, that mother and dad were the best after all.

Louise, daughter of J. E. Schopp, a chemist of 229 South Euclid avenue, got a notion to be a stenographer, her mother said last night when she had returned home. The girl left home and sought a position in the loop. She rented a room in a rooming house.

"When she left, I thought perhaps she had started for our old home in Richmond, Va.," Mrs. Schopp said. "She wanted to be a stenographer. It now develops, but she has changed her mind; she's decided to stay with mother and dad and go back to school for a while."

Gov. Small is still in the lead in the renewed Tribune poll where Jones has a week ago's advantage in the latest. The last previous poll of The Tribune in Chicago at last Sunday. Since then the votes cast at that time in the poll presented to the public are 54.41. That difference, measured in proportion, is about 73. The Jones gain—have gap between the two 118,000 votes.

Jones Gain

That is a very unusual last week of the campaign should be remembered. Jones' gain is a trifling gain in the Tribune poll—was then around 30 the indicated plurality at that time.

It is, therefore, a poll indicates there is a distance between the small still leads in the poll, by 149,000 votes.

Probably the chief spur on behalf of the downstate poll, which field, Jacksonville, Lin van for the judge. These are four counties large influence in the of the state. The numerous Republicans defeat of the governor.

SMALL LOSING, JONES GAINING, POLL NOW SHOWS

New Ballot on West Side Yields Surprise.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.
Gov. Small is slipping fast and Norman L. Jones is gaining steadily in the renewed Tribune poll of Chicago. Jones, who was not a factor in the last election, has now gained 10,000 votes in the latest poll. The last previous gubernatorial poll of the Tribune in Chicago was printed last Sunday. Since that time Small has lost heavily in public esteem, according to the poll. His percentage of the votes cast at that time was 52.85. In the poll presented today his percentage is 44.41. That difference is sentiment, measured in probable votes next Tuesday, is about 73,000. All of those votes have not gone to Jones. His gain in the same period, as indicated by the percentages, is a trifle over 45,000 votes. Those two—the Small loss and the Jones gain—have narrowed the gap between the two candidates by 10,000 votes.

Jones Gain Remarkable.
That is a very unusual gain in the last week of the campaign, but it should be remembered that the difference between the gubernatorial candidates—as represented by the percentages in the Tribune poll last Sunday—was then around 306,000. That was the indicated plurality of Gov. Small at that time.

It is, therefore, apparent that the poll indicates there is still considerable distance between the two contenders. Small still leads in public support, according to the poll, by approximately 10,000 votes. Probably the chief reason for the shift on behalf of the Democratic candidate for governor is the Tribune's dramatized poll, which showed Springfield, Jacksonville, Lincoln, and St. Louis as the four county seats and gave large influence in their respective sections of the state. That gave hope to numerous Republicans who desire the defeat of the governor.

What Figures Show.
The contrast of the percentages of the votes received by each candidate yesterday with those printed last Sunday is illuminating to the undecided voters, encouraging to the Jones supporters, and discouraging to the governor's friends. That comparison follows:

Candidate	Yesterday's Percent	Yesterday's Figures	Today's Percent	Today's Figures
Small	52.85	62,890	44.41	54,410
Jones	47.15	57,110	55.59	65,590
Total	100.00	120,000	100.00	120,000

All of the straws represented in yesterday's figures were taken on the west side. The street intersections at which the straws were collected and the vote obtained by each gubernatorial candidate at each were as follows:

PHONE MASHER. TRAPPED BY GIRL. DRAWS $100 FINE

George Katzman, 24 years old, of 5317 Cornell avenue, called up Edna Brunhofer once too often.

"I never did know him," she told police yesterday. "Somebody must have given him my name and phone numbers. He used to call me up at the Gundlach Advertising agency in the Wrigley building, where I work, and at home at 5317 Drake avenue. It was an awful nuisance."

"Then last night I was visiting friends in Oak Park and he called me up there. That was the last straw. When he called me at the office this afternoon I told him I'd meet him at his office."

Mr. Katzman is employed by Katzman Bros. furriers in the North American building. Sergt. Edward Weber of the detective bureau accompanied Miss Brunhofer to Katzman's office and arrested him there, and Judge Baras found him $100 and costs in night court.

PARIS POLICE PUT LID ON CABARET CENTERS OF VICE

PARIS, Oct. 30.—Systematic raids on all night clubs and cabarets catering exclusively to men were conducted last night, and ended with the closing of every "female impersonator" cabaret in the Montmartre district and the rest of Paris.

This action was planned for several weeks, as these vice centers had become an actual menace. It is declared there were almost as many all night cabarets for unnatural or abnormal men here as in Berlin. The existence of some of them had been known to the police for a long time, but they were tolerated as long as they did not interfere with the lives of other people.

Lately, however, the places became centers for cocaine traffic, and many Russian, Austrian, and German "clubs" of this type came into existence. The scandal surrounding the expulsion of Don Luis of Spain, son of Infanta Eulalia, led to a thorough investigation and the decision to wipe them all out of existence.

Nearly 100 professional male dancers, who danced only with other men, were jailed before morning. The pattern of the places numbered about 500.

Restoration of the Fine Arts building in Jackson park will officially get under way tomorrow, when the South Park board will ask for bids for all masonry work on the exterior.

Burglars Get $2,200 Loot in Two Evanston Homes

Burglars ransacked two Evanston homes last night in the absence of the owners. Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Merrill returned to their apartment at 848 Ridge avenue to find the front door jammed. Silverware, jewelry, and clothing valued at $2,000 had been taken. Mr. Merrill is sales manager for the Appleton Electric company in Chicago. Silverware valued at $200 was taken from the residence of Mrs. Thomas B. Hunter at 2416 Hartney street.

SMALL AVOIDING CHALLENGE OVER INTEREST SUIT

Too Busy to Ask for the Master's Report.

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Gov. Len Small yesterday passed up the challenge of John P. Devine, Democratic state campaign manager, who asked the governor to join with him in requesting full and immediate publicity of the master in chancery's report on the state treasury interest suit pending against Small at Springfield.

Neither the governor nor his campaign managers discussed Mr. Devine's request yesterday. It was said they were "busy" on other matters.

Briggle on Auto Trip.
Reports from Springfield were to the effect that Master in Chancery Charles G. Briggle and his family had left the capital on an automobile tour. Without adding anything to his statement of yesterday, Mr. Devine commented on the alleged "harmony" deal in Sangamon county between Republican factions which heretofore have been fighting each other with Gov. Small as the main issue. Briggle is a member of the old "Dick" Sullivan machine, which opposed Small until the harmony program was arranged.

Meantime Norman L. Jones, Democratic candidate for governor, in Cook county speeches continued to assail the governor for using state funds for political purposes.

Charges Another Slush Fund.
Collection of a huge campaign "slush fund" from state employees, rivaling that of the primary, was charged to Small by Jones last night.

In speeches last night Jones explained how employees of the state have been "shaken down" for a part of their salary as contributions to the governor's campaign fund.

The Democratic candidate told how salaries have been increased at the expense of the state and the amount of the increase dumped into Small's campaign fund. This system was adopted when some employee, backed at turning over a part of their regular salaries.

Jones Talks for Radio.
In addition to his regular meetings "out in the wards" last night Jones broadcast an address by radio.

"The governor of the state holds his office not through the Republican party, but in spite of it," Jones said. "In 1920 the expressed will of the Republican party in the primary was to elect me."

HOME TOWN MAYOR RALLIES ALL PARTIES TO CAUSE OF JONES

Supporters of Norman L. Jones, Democratic candidate for governor, have been pointing to election returns of the last thirty years to show what the "home folks" think of him. During his ten years on the Circuit bench Judge Jones has received virtually the unanimous vote of Carrollton and Greene county.

Yesterday Mayor O. H. Vivell of Carrollton issued a proclamation unprecedented in state elections. It called on all voters, regardless of party, to support Judge Jones in the election next Tuesday.

"Once before, in 1828, Carrollton had the honor of furnishing Illinois with a governor," Mayor Vivell said. "The opportunity is at hand to furnish another. Let's make it two."

The recent element of the Republican party was defeated in the 1924 primary by the operation of a vicious political machine that had been built up during the last four years, manned by state payrollers and financed by state money.

Small Recruits His Army.
Hundreds of temporary employees, padded payrolls, the dissipation of the appropriation to repair the civil war battle flags and the money appropriated to take care of unfortunate elements and the character, also and cost of such.

Teachers at the meeting last night in the Capitol building reported that principals in some schools had called the teachers together and explained that some salary adjustment is being contemplated and that the information sought would be taken into consideration.

It is known that the board is considering dispensing with a large number of teachers by increasing the number of pupils per room. Last night it was felt by the teachers that the board is actually getting ready to take such steps. They went on record against the plan, declaring that any such move would hurt their campaign to bring about an increase in the tax collections.

Demented Sisters Sent to Asylum on Same Day
Two sisters were committed together yesterday to the hospital for the insane at Kankakee by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. They are Ella Kessel, 41, and Emma Wenzel, 29. They lived at 1301 Holt street. They sewed beads on dresses. When their mother died not long ago the sisters anointed her body with liniment and failed to notify the authorities.

TEACHERS AGAIN ON WARPATH; FEAR PAY CUT

Members of the Chicago Teachers' federation met last night to protest against a questionnaire sent out from the office of Supt. William McAndrew which the federation people suspect is a forerunner of a salary adjustment that may effect the entire teaching force. Mr. McAndrew has announced that there was no cut in teachers' pay in contemplation.

The questionnaire asks the principals to list by number teachers who have dependents; those living in hotels or boarding houses and the amounts they pay; and those living with friends or at home and not paying full cost of living. In addition it asks for a list of teachers maintaining establishments and the character, also and cost of such.

Teachers at the meeting last night in the Capitol building reported that

MRS. REINECKE PUTS CURB ON TAX CURIOSITY

Interest in Neighbor's Income Is Waning.

Income tax information will be open to the public again from 1 o'clock until 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The office of Mabel G. Reinecke, collector of internal revenue for the northern district of Illinois, usually closed on Saturday afternoons, will be kept open during the stated hours for the special benefit of those seeking tax information.

Although Washington regulations provide for but one clerk to be assigned to the work of supplying the data, Mrs. Reinecke stated that it is probable she will assign further help if the number of requests justifies it.

On the other hand, not so many information requests are expected for tomorrow. The requests have been slowed up by the ruling that the inquirer must put on record his or her name, and the reasons for seeking the information.

PLEA TO JUDGE FAILS TO STOP TAX PUBLICITY

But Ohio Collector Won't Give Out Lists, Anyway.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 30.—Carl F. Routsahn, internal revenue collector here, will adhere to the present to his orders against giving out income tax lists, he announced late today, notwithstanding the action of Federal Judge D. C. Westenhaver in overruling a petition of Attorney John W. Reavis against publication of his own income tax payments.

Judge Westenhaver discusses at length the two sections of the federal statutes in dispute, section 3,187 providing criminal penalties for improper use of income tax returns, and section 287 providing for preparation of tax lists and payments made each year.

See Possible Penalties. "It is a grave question," Judge Westenhaver said, "whether the law passed in June, 1924, applies to the 1923 returns, or whether to those returns only the law as it stood prior to June, 1924, is applicable."

If the latter is the case the collector and other officers might be in grave danger of severe penalties if they gave out lists for publication. They might be removed and punished for their acts."

Mr. Routsahn said that in view of announcements of government officials that publication is illegal, and "the probability of early action to determine the question by legal process, I see no reason to change my mind."

He said that he had no objection to the publication of the names of the taxpayers, but that he would not give out the lists of their income and payments.

Stone Seeks Court for Test Case. Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Before commencing a suit to test the legality of newspaper publication of income lists Attorney General Stone is canvassing the field to determine where to commence proceedings.

Notices have gone out to a number of district attorneys in leading cities inquiring if they have a suitable case involving the question at issue. When reports are received from the district attorneys Mr. Stone then will determine whether to single out a single newspaper for prosecution or to commence two or more cases in different sections of the country.

Wants Action Before March. It is desired to commence the test case in a jurisdiction where prompt action can be obtained. If possible, before next March, when the next annual income tax returns will be filed. It may be possible to obtain a decision from a lower court by that time, but it will scarcely be possible to reach the Supreme court of the United States.

Under the procedure employed by Mr. Stone in canvassing the situation it probably will not be possible to commence the case until after the election.

Slueth Sues Undermyer for Stokes Case Salary. Unpaid for his detective work in tracing an alleged plot engineered by W. E. D. Stokes, New York millionaire, against his wife, Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, W. C. Undermyer was paid a huge fee and has refused to meet the detective's expenses, the suit charges.

EX-MRS. JOYCE BASIS OF BIG TAX EXEMPTION SUIT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—An echo of the divorce proceedings involving David G. Joyce of Chicago was heard before the board of tax appeals today when Mr. Joyce filed an appeal from a tax ruling of the commissioner of internal revenue.

Mr. Joyce had sought to deduct $12,500 from gross income for 1920 on account of "legal and professional expenses for transactions affairs."

The commissioner of internal revenue refused to allow the deduction and notified Mr. Joyce of a deficiency tax from which an appeal has now been taken.

The sum of $22,500 was expended by Mr. Joyce for legal fees in defending a suit brought by his former wife, Mrs. Roberta Acott Joyce, in which it was sought to obtain a modification of a post-nuptial agreement under which Mrs. Joyce was to receive the income from a trust fund of $200,000.

In the suit Mrs. Joyce sought to obtain a larger share of his income. The proceedings were brought at about the same time she commenced suit for divorce. Of the $22,500, Mr. Joyce paid $18,000 to Frank P. Laffinwell and $7,500 to George Gordon Battle.

Because his entire income came from his estate and his business consisted of the investment, management, and preservation of the estate, it was his contention that legal expenses in connection with the estate were properly deductible from gross income. He did not attempt to claim a deduction for the $20,000 additional expended in connection with the divorce proceedings.

MEDICAL SOCIETY SETS STANDARD FEE FOR EVERY SICKNESS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—A scale of fees has been fixed by the Medical society of the District of Columbia. Minimum fees range from $2 for a minor office consultation or a word of advice over the telephone, to $300 for certain major operations. Maximum fees for similar service range from $10 to $5,000. Charity work is permitted.

The importance of the case and the responsibility attached to it are considered in placing the maximum fee. It was pointed out the scale will allow persons of moderate means to obtain the best medical skill at a cost within their reach.

An example is the fee for a smallpox vaccination, where a minimum of $2 and a maximum of $25 is fixed. General visits range from $3 to $25, and the removal of an appendix may cost from $100 to $5,000.

FERDINAND PECK, CITY PIONEER, IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Ferdinand W. Peck, pioneer Chicagoan and former commissioner General of the United States to the Paris exposition, is seriously ill at the Henrotin hospital. He was taken there Saturday afternoon from the Chicago Athletic association suffering from inflammatory rheumatism, which has somewhat undermined his constitution.

Since Saturday there has been some improvement, but his physician, Dr. James A. Harvey, says his condition is still grave. His temperature was 101 degrees last night.

Mr. Peck, who is 76 years old, has been identified with most of Chicago's civic enterprises, including the building of the Auditorium and the World's Columbian exposition. He is commonly referred to as Commodore Peck, a title obtained while at the head of a local yacht club.

DEFY DICTATOR;
THROWN INTO JAIL"Long Live Republic!"
During Raid on Hall.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
MADRID, Oct. 28.—(By Mail to Frontiers to Avoid Censorship.)—A most formidable demonstration of leaders in Spanish politics and culture against the dictatorship of Primo de Rivera ended tonight in wholesale arrests of some of the best known figures in Spain.

A meeting was called in the Palace Hotel, Madrid, by a committee including Gen. Berenguer, former governor of Morocco; former Minister of War Alcala Zamora, Gen. Sabaria, and other political chiefs.

All Exiles Speak.
Noted leaders of Spanish opinion, notably Blasco Ibanez, former Premier of Spain, former Minister of Foreign Affairs Santiago Alba, and Miguel de Unamuno, sent long messages declaring for the overthrow of the dictatorship at whatever cost.

The censorship forbade any notice of the meeting in the newspapers, but nevertheless the crowded hall contained practically every well known liberal still left in Spain.

Speeches violently attacking the tyranny of Dictator de Rivera were made, declaring the present regime was discrediting Spain before the civilized world.

Police Raid Hall.

At this moment the police broke into the room and proceeded to arrest everybody in sight. Gen. Berenguer hurried them to proceed, declaring he was the highest ranking officer in the Spanish army. The police paid no attention to him and continued to make arrests amid the tumult, while cries of "Long live the republic" and "Long live liberty in Spain" started up. Except for Gen. Berenguer, practically all the politicians, generals, professors, and writers present are now in jail. Among these is Prof. Pedro Gains, in whose honor the meeting was called after he had made a courageous speech to the students of the University of Madrid, attacking the principle of the dictatorship.

The above excerpts are from a letter written by John Snyder to his wife, Mrs. Emily Snyder, 12101 Lovett avenue, Detroit, and turned over to the central police yesterday by members of the crew of the S. S. Alabama.

Snyder booked passage on the ship's last trip eastward across Lake Michigan. The letters were found when the ship was returning to Chicago. Snyder may have committed suicide or he may have left the ship at a Michigan port, the crew said.

Police have communicated with Detroit authorities in an effort to learn whether or not the man actually did commit suicide.

SEVEN CORNER STORES IN THE LOOP

SEEK LAW FOR
$10,000,000 OF
GARAGE BONDS

Legislation to enable the south park board to construct a $10,000,000 underground garage in Grant park will be sought by the Chicago Association of Commerce, it was announced yesterday.

This decision was reached after a committee of the association had appeared at a meeting of the board and learned that the south park commissioners lacked authority to issue such bonds because of the plan to charge a fee for each of the 10,000 automobiles for which space would be provided.

President E. J. Kelly of the board yesterday denied that the method of financing the stadium was a "come on" policy, as charged recently in a bulletin of the Civic Federation.

"The cost of the stadium, as it now stands, exceeded the estimates, because of the high prices caused by the war," Mr. Kelly said. "If it is up to the voters to decide Nov. 4 if they want the stadium, and closed with a curved structure. It is in the unit yet to be completed that the memorial building for the city's soldier dead is to be erected."

POLITICAL NOTES

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, announced yesterday that $1,500 in prizes will be given to precinct captains whose precincts show the biggest vote for the $100,000,000 road bond issue. But he didn't explain whether the $1,000 first prize would go to the Democratic captain or to one of the two or three Republican captains of the star precinct.

County Clerk Sweetzer announced that objections of Speedway hospital authorities to the erection of a polling place near the institution have been overruled at Washington. The veterans will be able to vote.

The Chicago Automobile Trade association has endorsed Municipal Judge John F. O'Connell for his "thoughtful, courteous consideration" of citizens in automobile cases.

Albert B. George, Republican nominee for the Municipal bench, the only Negro on either major party ticket, has been endorsed by the United Stockyards Packing House Workers of America.

Charles F. Brown, Democratic nominee for the Municipal court, is a graduate of the second officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan and has the endorsement of several service men's organizations.

Indorsement of the candidacy of Michael L. Igoe for state's attorney have been announced by Mayor David Bertram M. Winston, James C. Jeffery, and other well known lawyers. He also has the support of the Luxemburger Independent club.

LUNDIN PLAYS LONE HAND TO SEIZE PARTY

Aids Work for Small and Ignore Rest on Ticket.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Fred Lundin is playing the lone wolf in the present campaign to an extent that has astonished even his political friends. His plan of procedure, as disclosed unquestionably by his tactics up to this point, is to select Small at any cost and to slaughter all the Republican nominees backed by the party factions which have fought him in the past. His hope is to leave the Lundin Small organization the only Republican unit in Cook county or the state of Illinois with any practical strength on Nov. 5.

He has made no exceptions in his project of slaughter at the polls. He considers the McCormick-Brundage forces dead, since the primary. He forced William Hale Thompson to come back into the Small camp on his knees, and will throw him out again after the election. Now he intends to knife both Deneen and Crowe on Nov. 4 and have the field to himself.

APPROVAL OF EVERY UNION ON MULLEN FOR MUNICIPAL BENCH

Thomas J. Mullen, 1434 North Mahan avenue, who is a candidate on the Democratic ticket for judge of the Municipal court, has been endorsed by every labor union in the city. In the primary election he was favored by every law enforcing association in Chicago. Mr. Mullen, who was born in Chicago 42 years ago, is a graduate of Kent College of Law and has been practicing in Chicago for 13 years.

THOMAS J. MULLEN.

called by the county Republican management is considered the strongest proof of this fact, but there is considerable other evidence of his intentions. Take, for example, the marked list of the "Wage Earners' League." This is a proprietary organization owned by Lundin. It was created under his immediate direction by Percy B. Coffin, his first lieutenant in Cook county. M. J. Kelly of the meat cutters' union and William Quenne of the flat janitors, who was pardoned by Small, did the work. They report regularly to Coffin for orders.

The Kelly-Quenne ballot, dictated by Lundin through Coffin, is marked for La Follette, Small, Sprague, Igoe and a number of other Democratic county candidates. It is marked only for those Republican state candidates now considered a part of the Lundin-Smith organization—Sterling, Deneen and Carlstrom.

On top of this come unquestioned reports of the activities of Lundin workers and their instructions—"No Deneen and no Crowe." They offer the Democrats trades on any office except that of governor.

NEW YORK LABOR INDORSES DAVIS AND JILTS BOB

New York, Oct. 30.—Outstanding developments in the candidacy of John W. Davis revolved today about the endorsement given him by the executive council of the Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York and the delivery by him of three speeches in Long Island districts. Announcement of the labor action was made public by the eastern Democratic headquarters and was hailed by officials there as a revolt in American Federation of Labor ranks which assured Mr. Davis "the support of approximately 700,000 union workers in the greater city."

It was signed by John Sullivan, president, and John P. Coughlin, secretary, Central Trades and Labor council; Thomas P. Costello, delegate, metal polishers and buffers; Thomas J. Walsh, delegate, bridge and structural iron workers; Jerome B. Keating, delegate, iron molders; P. F. Quinn, delegate, cooperatives; Thomas J. Curtis, delegates, tunnel and subway workers; Edward McCaffrey, delegate, teamsters and chauffeurs; Peter J. Quigley, delegate, Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; Ralph M. Behling, delegate, theatrical stage employees; and Joseph Shail, delegates, horsehoof union. Withdrawal La Follette Indorsement.

The statement by Mr. Sullivan, incorporated as a part of the announcement from the Democratic headquarters, says: "The members of the executive council of the Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York, representing one-fifth of the entire membership of the American Federation of Labor, have withdrawn the indorsement of Senator La Follette, voted in September, and indorsed John W. Davis."

"This action, taken in conjunction with the previous declaration for Davis by the powerful building trades council of New York, Long Island and vicinity assures Mr. Davis the support of approximately 700,000 union workers in the greater city."

"The indorsement of Senator La Follette was made at the request of Samuel Gompers and his associates in the executive council of the American Federation of Labor."

The official statement of President Sullivan and his associates says: "We now realize that Senator La Follette has no chance of being elected President and that a vote cast for him in this state, or anywhere in the east, is a vote cast for the enemies of labor—Coolidge and Dawes."

"No clear thinking man or woman can compare Davis and Coolidge and their records without coming to the inevitable conclusion that in every way Davis is the better candidate, not only for the laboring man and woman, but for every citizen of the country who is not interested in special privilege."

"We have studied with great care the record of John W. Davis while a member of the legislature of the state of West Virginia, while a member of VOTE.

We think vote slacking should not be hanged. We are inclined to believe that even imprisonment is too severe a punishment for those who can vote and don't. We disagree with Judge Landis on this matter. Ballot dodging cannot be corrected by penalties and enforcement. It is a threat to this nation's welfare that can be answered only by voluntary action of our citizens. Voting is a privilege. Though dodging that privilege may damage America, it cannot be helped by laws.

Eighty per cent of the eligible voters voted in 1916. Seventy-three per cent voted in 1920. Sixty-six per cent voted in 1924. Sixty-two per cent voted in 1928. Less than 50 per cent voted in 1932. In 1920 about 36,646,000 voted and 27,819,634 failed to vote. Harding was elected by a minority of the electorate.

Indifference and inertia are the cause of more than half of the nonvoting. In a statistical study of nonvoters Merriam and Gemell found that inertia accounted for more than 3,000 failures to vote out of about 6,000 cases. Dislike, in voting accounted for about 1,300 cases. Legal and administrative difficulties accounted for about 900 cases. Physical difficulties accounted for about 1,300 cases. The failure is mostly moral failure.

There will be 7,000,000 new voters this year. In Illinois 210,458 young men and 217,682 young women will vote for the first time. But will they vote? If the youth who can vote will vote, they can capture the country. Elderly ladies who don't want to get their feet wet and tired business men too tired to attend to the business of citizenship ought to have less to do with deciding by their absence—the elections of this country.

THE NUB OF THE QUESTION.

When we escape from the Democratic presidential candidate's eloquent generalities, and from the self-styled progressive candidate's gloomy description of the American people as a race of slaves ruled by a handful of side whiskers in Wall street, and we get down, as Gen. Dawes says, to brass tacks, the practical question before the voters is just this: Do we want certain business depression, business anxiety, cessation of plans for business advance, increased unemployment, reduced wages, reduced consumption, or do we want a reasonable assurance of continued restoration from the depression into which the inflation and deflation of the Wilson administration plunged the country? As Secretary Hughes puts it: "There is one course that gives assurance of stability, of increasing trade, and of abundant employment. There is another course that just as clearly leads to confusion and business depression."

The choice, as the campaign reaches its close, is perfectly clear. It is between Coolidge with a revival of business confidence and an advance in general prosperity, or a struggle in congress involving a period of acute political agitation followed by a long period of legislative confusion, irresponsibility and uncertainty during which the business of the country will be in the doldrums and worse.

There are great issues of principle and policy raised in this campaign, such as the constitutional issue and the government ownership issue, which every intelligent citizen must make up his mind upon eventually. If the La Follette movement survives this election, but in the foreground of immediate practical interest to the farmer, the wage earner, the salaried man, the business man, small or big, and that most powerful of factors in the political arena, the housewife, the issue is Coolidge and sound conditions or political confusion and general depression.

A BARREL FOR THE GOLDFISH.

Attorney General Stone says that in the course of time some newspaper which has been publishing income tax returns will be called into court to explain by what authority. He says that the intent of congress in providing for publicity and in seemingly prohibiting the best way of getting it, by newspaper publication, may be left to surmise. To surmise and the courts. Congress makes no money of our moral issues difficult by sidestepping just a bit. The easy way of making incomes public for the various people who like to look at the goldfish is by newspaper lists. Mr. Stone intimates that he does not wholly understand the congressional intent. Neither do we. Congress is like Mr. Ziegler. He leaves them almost nude.

GERMAN RECOVERY IS EUROPEAN RECOVERY.

A stick of two types the other day announced the end of France's economic occupation of the Rhineland and Ruhr. Five inches were enough to tell it. Important things are often brief, sometimes uninteresting.

The end dispatch told the end of an epoch. A war began in 1914. At the end of a decade of war and vast destruction of life and wealth and crumbling systems, the victors have stepped on the neck of the defeated. The vanquished is given prospect of recovery.

"By a unanimous decision," says our correspondent, "the reparations commission declared that the last part of the Dawes plan for the restoration of Germany's fiscal and economic unity

—the economic evacuation of the Ruhr and the legal functioning of the Dawes plan in Germany—has been fulfilled."

Public buildings and public service in the Rhineland and Ruhr were given back once more to German hands. Workers returned to work. Expelled railwaymen, for example, 30,000 in number, were allowed once more to take up their usual duties. More than 210,000 Germans had been expelled by France from the occupied regions. Now the natural order will prevail again. Sanity, at the behest of the Dawes plan, has returned.

Europe has passed a calamitous ten years of history. Recovery will be slow. The Dawes plan and an increasing confidence in American leadership are first steps towards regeneration.

BRITISH ELECTIONS AND CONSEQUENCES.

The British elections have gone Conservative. The Liberals are virtually eliminated. Ramsay MacDonald's Laborites are out. Stanley Baldwin probably will be back as prime minister. The defeat of a minority government in a general election was expected. The Tories and Liberals accepted the fact that the Laborites had the largest block of votes in parliament, and in accepting the Labor government gave it rope for a while. They checked it on a minor incident in administration, but they would have checked it later on a major one. They served the tradition of fair play, which was a good shock absorber for extreme radicalism. They established the fact that the system of government was bigger than men and opinions in ascendancy under it.

In both the rise and fall of the Labor government we believe the world in general has more reason to find good. In almost everything that the Labor government was to be a Labor government it failed. But in issues in which it did not matter whether MacDonald was conservative, liberal, or radical it succeeded. We'd be inclined to give MacDonald a great deal of credit for the success of the Dawes plan. He restored the entente with France, and he succeeded in obtaining concessions and compromises which had been beyond the power of Lloyd George and Baldwin.

Time and the world's experience helped him. Another man at his moment might have had the same success, but we believe that the declared altruism of the Labor party and its seeming opposition to British imperialism gave persuasion to its approach.

When a matter of empire was touched the Laborites responded in the form of imperialists in most matters. They were as touchy as Tories when oil could be made to flow with honor. Their dogmas stuck best when the Far East was concerned, and that is where the United States particularly is concerned.

In the Washington conference the British were allowed to retain the right to make a fortified naval base at Singapore. America surrendered its right to make bases or fortifications. If the English speaking people are to retain any base in the Far East it is up to the British to make it. The Laborites said that the idea would be abandoned.

This undoubtedly started the eastern British dominions on a trend toward the United States. The American policy of exclusion of Asia is the British dominion policy, and Japan has threatened in the matter. No one wants a war over this question, but the whites cannot prevent it by not wanting it unless they are willing to open their gates and destroy themselves. It can be prevented by being proved in advance useless, but the United States in the Far East cannot offer the proof. If we were out of the Philippines we'd be out of the greatest danger, but we're in them.

In an issue with Japan Great Britain must side with the American and dominion view or lose. The Tories, we think, will build the Singapore base. It will be a great stabilizer of peace. What the Labor government could do for the general peace of Europe has been done. What the Tories may yet do for the general peace of the Far East is yet to be done. For these reasons we think it has been a good thing to have Labor in and out. It was a new thing in British government, but it served a purpose and in general a good one.

Editorial of the Day

JONES OR SMALL.

(Illinois State Register.)

Len Small claims all credit for the hard road system of Illinois.

Judge Norman L. Jones points to the fact that the hard road building program was inaugurated under the administration of Gov. Dunne and was promoted by Gov. Lowden to a point where it would have been impossible to block its progress.

Len Small seeks to leave the impression that the present hard road program will not be carried out unless he is re-elected.

Judge Jones says he will not only build more but better roads than Small, and that he will divorce hard road building from professional political manipulation.

Len Small has his Fred Lundin in Chicago, yet he charges that Judge Jones is the candidate of a Chicago "boss."

Judge Jones was originally presented as a candidate for governor in the column of the Illinois State Register, and it was because of his overwhelming popularity downstate that the Chicago organization finally threw its support to him.

Len Small says Judge Jones is the creature of some selfish individual or group.

Judge Jones is the type of man whose character and individuality are so thoroughly established as to make ridiculous any insinuation that he would be controlled by any influence other than his conscience and his obligations to the men, women, and children of Illinois.

Len Small, who is charged with pay roll padding, voted the bill passed by the general assembly providing for the publication of state pay rolls, and said it was to "satisfy idle curiosity."

Judge Jones says if he is elected governor he will see that legislation for publication of pay rolls is enacted so that the people may know who gets their tax money and for what purposes.

Len Small has been on trial during the major portion of his administration under charges brought by the state's legal department controlled by Small's own party associates. Issues involved in these sensational suits following the governor's arrest are still pending in the Circuit court of this district.

Judge Norman L. Jones has been elected and re-elected to the bench in this, the Seventh judicial circuit, Republican leaders and Republican newspapers of the district united with Democrats in re-electing him the last time without opposition because of his unquestioned integrity and his untarnished record.

Len Small has a record of pardoning and paroling convicts which has aroused a protest in his own party (especially among the women) that is without parallel in the annals of Illinois politics.

Judge Jones has a record of most conspicuous regard, on and off the bench, for the interests of all people and particularly the women and children whose interests were involved in cases coming under his judicial jurisdiction on trial during the major portion of his administration.

Which will you take Nov. 27?

Jones or Small?

STILL DREAMING.
DON'T have to take no more cod liver oil. Why? Because my child, this new kind of butter is just as good for you and it tastes better.

What research shows that there is something in cod liver oil which is not present in other foods, also shows that the "something" is present in those other foods after they have been radiated with sunlight or with ultra violet. A few years ago it was found that the milk from cows that were on fresh green pastures contained a "something" not found in the milk from stabled cows that were fed on stored food. Maybe instead of giving cod liver oil, we will eat cod and their livers as we do other ordinary foods, and we will make a food medicine to take the place of cod liver oil by radiating some butter; or maybe we will do away with milk cows altogether.

It is becoming almost impossible to get the cows milked. As compared with other foods, milk cannot be economically or conveniently produced or marketed. We may chuck the use of milk and butter entirely, for if the new theory be correct, the milk from known superior milk and milk products plus the "something" of cod liver oil can all be produced in other foods by radiation.

It has been noticed that hay cured in sunlight differs from that cured in the dark. It is even said that hay cured in sunlight on cloudy days is without some qualities found in the sun cured article. The alfalfa growers of Utah, New Mexico and Arizona claim that their product is superior in quality because it is cured green. They will welcome scientific evidence that the real superiority is due to the sunlight it had both while being grown and while being cured. Greenness is not only a good selling point, but it is also an evidence that the hay was cured under clear skies. Maybe the farmer of the future will have a radiating plant in his barn and treat all his hay and other feeds. Maybe he will decide to place up all his pasture land and put it in other crops, since his radiating plant will give the qualities of sun cured hay to silage and dry feeds.

If the art of imparting these qualities to all kinds of feeds is acquired, there may be no more runty calves! The thing may even broaden out and veterinarians may learn to control with radiated feeds some of the diseases that now destroy fowls, wipe out pigs and run as so-called epidemics among other farm animals.

The proposal has its reverse. For some unknown reason we keep certain foods, principally roots and herbs, in the dark. Nature points the way by growing them in the dark. There must be a reason. For instance, an Irish potato, maturing in the dark, is wholesome. On maturing on the ground, or near the top where the light can reach it, it is poisonous.

Man may change many of his foods. There is no reason for thinking the new and usually desirable qualities may not be imparted to cotton seed oil and oleomargarine and the milk cow be liberated from bondage thereby, or it may be that vegetable, fruit, cereal, breakfast food, bread and meat may be radiated.

Possibly curvy dieting may eventually be transferred from charlatanism to science.

HOME MADE NERVE TREATMENT.
Mrs. J. C. M. writes: I was much interested in reading the letter from E. A. W. regarding the treatment of nerve. May I offer another suggestion? One day while riding in the motor bus to the station, every nerve aching from the jolting and jerking, it suddenly struck me as being funny. Here you are getting the same treatment for a dime that you had in one of the most expensive sanitariums in the country. I immediately relaxed and let the vibration do its work. Before long I was rested and I boarded the train, and never more miss an opportunity for "treatment." We can make a virtue of necessity.

CURE FOR SOME RUNIONS.
C. C. writes: Several times I have seen inquiries about remedies for runions. And I wonder if any of your readers have tried this simple method. Separate the ends of the big toes from the other toes with a wad of cotton. Apply arnica to the swollen joint; then wrap a tight bandage around the ball of the foot to hold the great toe in its natural position. Then wear shoes a little too long boots at the tip.

REPLY.
This method will cure some of the cases.

60 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 31, 1864.

NEW YORK.—The Richmond dispatch says of the situation near Richmond: "The hostile armies are so strongly entrenched that it would seem sheer madness for either to attack the other. They remain in their respective positions all winter, or until morning or night may bring on a collision."

NEW ORLEANS.—Gov. Allen has begun conscripting Negroes for the rebel army. It is reported that the cavalry are scouting the country to enforce the conscription. They carry off every Negro able to bear arms.

WASHINGTON.—The Montgomery Advertiser says: "Men may tower the front are perfectly well with enthusiasm. On the march from Palmetto they pressed forward barefooted, saying Gen. Hood might need their feet. This afternoon, I start tomorrow to see the campaign through."

WASHINGTON.—President Lincoln issued a proclamation admitting Nevada as a state of the Union.

DETROIT.—The city was plunged into the wildest excitement last night, when the ringing of bells called out the soldiers. Mayor Barker received a dispatch from the mayor of Toronto that he had positive information that a rebel raid was to be made on Detroit.

ROME.—Ga. J. D. Tredway sent this message to Norman Williams of Chicago: "Brig. Gen. T. E. G. Ransom died this afternoon. I start tomorrow with the body for Chicago."

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 31, 1899.

LONDON.—A fierce battle between the British and Boers raged all day near Ladysmith and the British claim a victory, although they admit losses. Gen. Joubert began the battle with artillery, which was returned by the British under Gen. White. This was followed by cavalry and infantry charges by the British, and Gen. White reports the Boers retreated. It is expected the battle will be resumed today.

WASHINGTON.—Admiral Dewey will marry Mrs. Hazen, widow of Brig. Gen. William Babcock Hazen. The admiral announced the betrothal. It is expected the wedding will take place before Christmas. Mrs. Hazen is a daughter of Mrs. Washington McLean and a sister of John R. McLean.

PATERSON, N. J.—Vice President Garret A. Hobart has had a turn for the worse and lies in a critical condition at his home in this city.

NEW YORK.—The ferryboat Chicago, belonging to the Pennsylvania Railroad company, with seventy-five or 100 passengers aboard, was run into early today by the steamer City of Argus and sank within seven minutes. Four persons are known to have perished.

SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamer Bertha brought $2,500,000 in gold dust from the mines of Nevada. Among the passengers who returned with plenty of dust were G. L. Rickard and wife. "Tex" was staked last spring by an agent of the Alaska Commercial company, and a modest estimate of his wealth is $40,000.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 31, 1914.

LONDON.—The abrupt entrance of Turkey on the side of Germany and Austria is the overshadowing feature of the war today. As an indication of the war between Russia and Turkey is on in earnest, a dispatch from Rome says: "It is reported from Constantinople that a battle between Turkish and Russian fleets is in progress off Odessa."

AMSTERDAM.—Both the Handelsblad and the Telegraf report that the Germans have evacuated Ostend. They are said to be fortifying a strong position near Zeebrugge.

A LINE OF TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE LINE BOOK IS OUT.

The Line Book made its appearance yesterday. It's rather a nice book. Of course it is not as pretentious as many books are—no gold leaf, no morocco binding, no steel engravings; but it's quite a neat little book for ten cents. The Line Book contains both contributions and things written by the col. con. It is not a perfect collection. The book has only sixty-four pages, each page a third of a column long. But we put as many of the contributions as we could and we held down the col. con. as much as possible. The Line Book won't take the place of your scrapbook of the Line, because in your scrapbook are the things that you yourself love, whether anybody else does or not. And your scrapbook is bigger.

*Howdy do, little Line Book, howdy do!
Howdy do, little Line Book, howdy do!
Do not look so shy and solemn,
You're a chip off the old column.*

Howdy do, little Line Book, howdy do!

Shoot 'Nother Dollar.

R. H. L.: Len is clear above high water mark. Our two bucks inclosed says so. We fear not Norm's tide. You take the God-fearing, Republican for Norm, and we'll take the God-loving ones, and the God-blessed Democrats, and the God-ding-dong La Follette for Len, and see where you get off. Mabel will never have a chance to schedule those royalty returns, unless you quit this reckless betting on what beat old King Canute. Nevertheless, we need the dough. Effie, feed yo' ravens!

DAILY CALUMNET CHAPLAIN.

AN OLD WOMAN'S HALLOWEEN.

*There's a witch-and blinding tonight
And the moon is dim and eerie.
There's the sound of something in flight.
What is that queer shape, dearie?*

*There's a murky look in the sky
Where the marsh stretches dark and wet.
That's where the strange ones fly.
Come closer to me, my pet.*

*There's a sound on the window pane
Like dead hands touching glass.
There's a glimmer of white down the lane,
Your grandmother 'll look, my lass.*

*There's something weird in the air.
It's the strange ones riding wild.
Ooo! They're whistling me off to their —God! You can't save me, child.*

JATHAWKER.

It Was James!

R. H. L.: Helen Emma is right. James was the author of the rally, "courage of the opinions of others." However, Wilde got off some good ones, too, as when his hostess mildly chided him for being late at a party and asked him to look at the little clock on the mantelpiece, he retorted: "Ah, what can that little clock know what the great golden sun is doing?"

THE MARQUESS OF QUEENSBERRY.

A Little Learning Is a Dangerous Thing.
R. H. L.: I was surprised to see in the Line the other morning the famous epigram about "having the courage of the opinions of others" attributed to Whittier. Wilde said this in "The Importance of Being Earnest." If your contributors aren't sure of these quotations, it would be far better not to quote at all.

WE'RE GETTING OUR ROOSTERS READY. Hank takes 'em out of the coop every morning and feeds 'em 'bran mash, and we've got a music teacher who comes every day and teaches them the high notes.

Our birds are crowing wonderfully well on Wednesday—well, tune in on W. G. N. and hear our roosters crow. On the left is the Norm Jones rooster and on the right is the Al Sprague rooster. We've a crow, too, but he doesn't crow; he's a silent rooster.

Ray Off Now Sarge, Don't Start Nothin'.
R. H. L.: When it comes to preparedness, we have with Seagood Mac until the last day is pushed up. But if there was any one further away from the battle's roar than a field clerk or Y secretary, it must have been a job on the U. S. S. New Jersey.

CHARLEY BRYAN hasn't been found yet! And the election only four days away. Suppose Charley were elected? Oh, certainly not, but suppose a body can suppose. Now suppose he were elected? Of course it would be all right if he disappeared after election. Every Vice President disappears after election. Then Charley is CHARLEY BRYAN.

God Save the Prince of Wales.
RHL—Attention SEEDIDOT!—Well bite. Why couldn't H. R. H. go into the front line trenches? Oh, Shaw! Oh, God!—Perhaps he had on his red tunic and was afraid of the Cuties. Nicht Wahr?

THIS IS WITCHES' NIGHT, when these weird creatures and hob-goblins and wicked evil spirits and play their maddest pranks. Some people's way of seeing these things is to look over their left shoulder. In a country graveyard at night, just as the clock strikes twelve. Others just go to the telephone at eight or nine or ten (any hour—it doesn't make any difference) and call up a bootlegger.

There Is No Such Animal.
RHL: This is what's left of what we picked at the top of Mount Tom Sunday. Mightn't you even stay out of our minds on Sunday? The perfect week-end of the year and a most glorious view from the top of that enormous dune. The sitters were vurr' rare. The other do-funnies reminded us of the little cymbals on tambourines. Shake them and see. We've discovered an easy ascent to Tom Mountain. When shall we send the blue print?

PROF. FRANK HANKINS of Smith college yesterday said that as regards prohibition the thing to do was to follow a line of passive resistance. Most of the passive resistance we've seen has been directed towards the Demon Rum. The resistance wasn't much but the passivity was wonderful.

The Search Goes Grimly On.
O. H. L.: I'm only a poor stenographer, and I have to read your stuff on the q. t. when the boss is looking 't'her way. He looked too soon today and I had to duck the paper before I got it read. Tell me—have they found Charley My Boy yet?

HALLOWEEN has lost a lot of its old charm—such as throwing gates into bonfires, putting tics on windows, and putting jack-o'-lanterns in the window. But the custom of drinking cider at Halloween is stronger than ever. Stronger and harder.

She's a Smart Girl.
R. H. L.: How come this Greendora G makes the Line twice in one day?

PRIME MINISTER MacDonald was routed in the British election. And Ramsay was on the stump taking every minute. Oh you silent Cal!

ONTARIO 388,000 VOTERS.
Chicago, Oct. 28.—In your very excellent editorial last week on the Ontario election result you neglected to mention several very important features in connection with it. Four years ago Ontario went dry by approximately 400,000 votes. It voted dry this year by approximately 40,000. Quite a difference, isn't it? And the total vote was much larger this year than four years ago.

Another point, the Ontario temperance act is not a fanatical measure like the Volstead law. Beer of 2 1/2 per cent alcoholic content is legally made and sold in Ontario, and the same brewers who make beer of much higher alcoholic content for export to other provinces or to other countries.

At the Ontario border of Quebec or Manitoba there are no snoring revenue agents to search your bag and baggage for a flask of liquor. Any one can bring in good liquor from the wet provinces or have it sent in. Or, if one hasn't got time to go after it or send for it, there are always ways of buying it in the province—good liquor and cheap in price.

From what I know of Ontario, I venture to say that of every 100 homes in the province, ninety always have a supply of good liquor on their sideboards. If one had a law like the Volstead act, with its search and seizure hounds, there would be a revolution there the day after it went in force. Canada is more entitled to be called the "land of the free" than the United States.

HEARTBROKEN TOMMY.
Chicago, Oct. 27.—I read your editorial entitled "Today Is Navy Day," and it nearly broke my heart the way you described our army, the U. S. S. Commodore and Wilmetta. It may all be true, but if you can't boost it—best knock.

I'm a naval reservist and some day when my country needs me I'll be one of the first to answer her call, and that's where I'm getting my training and a little proud of it. Don't let it happen again.

Sweet Singers and Sour Notes in the Gleaming.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Even the contemplation of this story is not all pleasant. This listener plunged into particular at 7:15. At that moment a piano and "Wol" was saying something potent, a baritone breaking in with a "Mélancholique" aria, stirring the imagination. It was "Wol" and "Waves," by Handel; artist, Maudie Harrison. We shall look forward with interest to further recitals by this singer.

Mrs. Lydia Lochner, contralto, must have been in exceptionally good voice and mood. In "Old Pal" it almost seemed as if she was ready to stop singing and just tell us the yearnings of her heart for this old friend.

Like a forerunner of things lamentable, a turn of the dials brought in a baritone at another station singing "The Land of the Sky Blue Water," but the piano, the vocalist, or my ear was out of tune, and it was pitiful. I wonder if it is not known that something more than words and voice get across? Artistry, intelligence, and much else carry as well.

Shortly after 8 o'clock selections from "Madam Sherry," played by the Drake ensemble, W-G-N, evoked pleasant memories. George Simons, tenor, succeeded in interesting this rambling rover with a group of songs from this station.

The broadcast of the Luther day celebration at the Congress hotel, K.W., was woefully marred by fading and "static" in its sound like static and we will call it that for charity's sake. Whatever it was, it was of course unavoidable.

The sacred concert by the quartet of the First Presbyterian church, Chicago Heights, afforded a quiet, restful half hour.

Found diversion in the program by the band club of the University club at WEBH, not alone in the snappy euphony, but also in wondering who is the who of the University club's band club.

Here's registering a complaint with a kick in it against the reading of telephone and telegraph requests from individuals. It is passed.

MEMORY SHY, GOULD SAYS OF FATHER'S GIFT

New York, Oct. 30.—(Special.)—Jay Gould, son of the late George J. Gould, testified today in Jersey City in the suit of Mrs. Guline Gould, second wife of the financier, for $52,000 interest on a trust fund of $1,000,000 left her by Mr. Gould. He declared that when he reached his father's office in southern France a month before his death, the financier was unable to recognize him and talked unintelligibly.

The executors of George Gould's estate are contesting Mrs. Gould's claim to the $1,000,000 trust on the ground that the financier was not legally competent to sign the letter which gave it to her.

Summing up, George McCarter, attorney for the executors, declared that under New Jersey law the letter in which George J. Gould gave instructions for the turning over of $1,000,000 in bonds to his second wife was not binding unless it could be shown that the financier was mentally fit when it was received in Jersey City, April 7, as well as when he wrote it.

The court gave counsel one week to submit briefs, after which a decision will be announced.

SECURITY ORDER BY U. S. IN LEASE OF OIL TO DOHNEY

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 30.—The government today rested its case against the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company for cancellation of leases and contracts on the Elk Hills naval oil reserve in California.

Frank J. Hogan, attorney for the defense, started immediately to present the defense of the case.

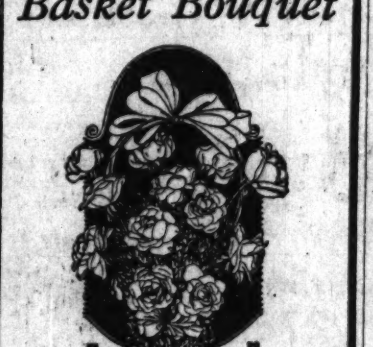

He developed the fact that orders were given from Washington for secrecy to surround negotiations for the supplemental leases and contracts to the Dohney company. H. Foster Bain, director of the bureau of mines, showed a letter from Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, dated Dec. 9, 1921, stating that "all those matters concerning fuel storage base must be strictly confidential since the fuel project was a war defense plan."

Dr. Bain testified that instructions were issued to officers in the department of the interior to preserve secrecy concerning the war defense plans as involved in the leases and contracts. This occurred at the time the arms conference was being held in Washington, Bain testified.

PROHIBIT SALE OF "LOONY GAS" AFTER FIVE DIE

New York, Oct. 30.—Gasoline containing tetra-ethyl, the mysterious "looney gas" compound, may no longer be sold in New York City. The board of health today adopted a resolution prohibiting its sale after the death of the fifth of the thirty-three laborers affected by the fumes while experimenting with the mixture in the Bayway (N. Y.) laboratories of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

The health board also made it a misdemeanor for any one to use the gasoline in motors in the city.

Herbert Fuson, 29, of Elizabeth, N. J., was the fifth man to succumb to the gas poisoning, which had made its victims insane. He died early today, confined in a straitjacket, a few hours after the Standard Oil scientists seeking a successful treatment of the baffling malady had announced their quest successful.

A few hours after Fuson's death eleven more gas crazed men were taken to Reconstruction hospital.

20 COUSINS FIGHT FOR $6,000,000 JENNINGS HOARD

Judging from the number of bidders for the $6,000,000 fortune left by Edwin B. Jennings, eccentric recluse, the Jennings family tree spread its branches all over the United States.

Some twenty cousins five times removed seem to have the edge on those further removed, and there are some who may fight bitterly to prove just how far removed they are.

All the bidders, except those unable to walk, appeared before Probate Judge Henry Horner yesterday at the opening of hearings to determine distribution of the fortune.

Jennings died more than a year ago leaving no will and no direct descendants. He was the son of John Drake Jennings, Chicago real estate pioneer.

One of Jennings' relatives, E. C. Pringle of St. Louis, astonished the court when he declared from the witness stand that, although he was only "six times removed," he wished no share in the estate.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR J. B. FORGAN; BURIAL PRIVATE

James B. Forgan, dean of Chicago bankers, will be buried today in Graceland cemetery, following a public funeral service in the Fourth Presbyterian church, which he attended in his lifetime. The service will be at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The burial will be private.

Resolutions of sorrow over Mr. Forgan's death and of sympathy for his widow were adopted yesterday by the Chicago Clearing House association and by the directors of the Chicago Title and Trust company, of whom Mr. Forgan was one.

"A close association of nearly a quarter century," the directors of the Title and Trust company said, "has left nothing but admiration for his kindness, his consideration, his stern integrity, his wisdom, and prudence—his courage."

WIDOW GETS ALL OF $3,000,000 LOEB ESTATE

"Dickie" Unmentioned in Six Year Old Will.

Mrs. Anna Bohnen Loeb, widow of Albert H. Loeb, senior vice president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., was named as the sole beneficiary of his $3,000,000 estate, it was revealed yesterday when Mr. Loeb's will was filed in the Probate court. The will was made six years ago.

Allan Loeb, eldest son, was appointed sole executor of the will and was granted full exemption from giving security on his official bond. Three other sons—Ernest, Richard, and Thomas, 11 years old—were not mentioned in the testament.

Will Filed in Office.

Allan and Attorney Sidney Adler, a close friend of Mr. Loeb, unearthed the will in the office of the late executive of Sears, Roebuck & Co., among private possessions in the company's vault. It was dated Nov. 4, 1918.

They took the document before Assistant Probate Judge Frederick W. Elliott and filed it the date for hearing being set for Nov. 18. It was said no content of any kind will be made.

The failure of the will to mention Mr. Loeb's third son, Richard, now serving life sentence in Joliet prison for the murder of Robert Frank, was not due, it was pointed out, to the 19 year old boy's crime. Rumor that Mr. Loeb had drawn a new testament following his son's sentence to prison was dispelled.

The will was exceptionally short. It had been drawn up by Mr. Loeb himself and witnessed by Catherine M. Fitzgerald, his private secretary, Walker O. Lewis, and William C. Graves.

Stock Is Bulk of Estate.

The will was worded as follows: "I, Albert H. Loeb of Chicago, Ill., do declare this to be my last will. I give, devise, and bequeath all my property, both real and personal, to my beloved wife, Anna H. Loeb. I appoint Allan M. Loeb sole executor of this will, and expressly direct that he be exempt from giving any security or securities on his official bond. Signed, ALBERT H. LOEB."

The bulk of the estate is composed of Sears, Roebuck & Co. stock, it is said, while the palatial home on the south side and the show place summer home at Charlevoix, Mich., are said to compose the real estate mentioned.

POLITICS AND LOVE DO MIX—LOVE GETS K. O.

Peter Hard, 22 years old, a former student of the University of Chicago, tried to mix politics and love-making. The result was that yesterday he landed in jail.

Peter has decided views against "dirty machine politics" and he decries the radical tendencies of the day. Frank Stiska, a machinist, 4012 North Drake avenue, whose daughter Josephine has been Hard's sweetheart for a year and a half, has just as positive political views, with a leaning to the left.

La. P. O. idea, young Hard says. Since "among Peter's courtship of the 18 year old daughter has been sidetracked for political wrangles with his prospective father-in-law.

Yesterday when Peter appeared for work at 148 West Washington street, where he is "accountant," he was met by Sergeant O'Toole and Mc-

Carthy, who arrested him on a warrant charging him with abducting Miss Stiska last Sunday. In fact, Hard told a story that made police assure him probable release this morning when he appears in court.

After the political campaign season opened, Hard explained, he and his prospective father-in-law disagreed so violently that the young suitor was ordered out of the house and told to forget Josephine. Josephine, who is a stenographer for the Weddell Realty company in the Temple building, didn't intend to lose her sweetheart and she figured that after election the breach between Hard and her father would heal.

So on Sunday she packed all her clothing and stole away from home. Monday morning she and Hard were married in the county building. When the Stiskas missed their daughter they hunted up young Hard, who refused to tell where his bride was until her parents promised forgiveness. Mr. Stiska's story was the warrant charging abduction.

Friedman, according to the charges presented to the grand jury by Assistant United States District Attorney William F. Waugh, is the leader in the sacramental wine ring. It is said the indictments will name 100 persons within the next two weeks. It was Friedman, suave and agreeable salesman, and who was the most "reliable" in the ante to take congregations, phantom rabbits, etc.

Roche pocketed the bribe and placed Epstein under arrest on charges that carry a five-year penitentiary sentence.

Similar action was taken against Isadore Epstein, Herman's brother, who was charged, "was taciturn enough to give a $500 bribe to Agent C. J. Conner, Roche's partner, during the course of a raid on his wine establishment at 1238 West 99th street.

Others indicted are: Louis Greenberg, Edward Prival, Morris Gerber, Rabbi Mandel Perer, Jacob Rosenberg, Abe London, W. H. Brin, M. Seyman, Harry Wernik, Israel Shulur, Morris Zevin, millionaire wholesaler, Irving Roysack, Martin Baum, Samuel Wolfe, George Cohen, Max Levi, Leon Fox, Louis Gottlieb, and Attorney Harry Schuts.

Among the new names was that of Irving Friedman, freelance wine agent, who is credited with the sale of more than 2,000,000 gallons of port, sherry, and muscat wine, intended for use of the pious.

able salesman, and who was the most "reliable" in the ante to take congregations, phantom rabbits, etc.

Among those indicted yesterday in Herman Epstein, 8408 Austin avenue, a wine distributor, who is charged with giving a $500 bribe to Agent Patrick Roche of the special intelligence unit, when Roche let a maid on the wine station and found no records had been kept. Roche pocketed the bribe and placed Epstein under arrest on charges that carry a five-year penitentiary sentence.

Similar action was taken against Isadore Epstein, Herman's brother, who was charged, "was taciturn enough to give a $500 bribe to Agent C. J. Conner, Roche's partner, during the course of a raid on his wine establishment at 1238 West 99th street.

Others indicted are: Louis Greenberg, Edward Prival, Morris Gerber, Rabbi Mandel Perer, Jacob Rosenberg, Abe London, W. H. Brin, M. Seyman, Harry Wernik, Israel Shulur, Morris Zevin, millionaire wholesaler, Irving Roysack, Martin Baum, Samuel Wolfe, George Cohen, Max Levi, Leon Fox, Louis Gottlieb, and Attorney Harry Schuts.

Among the new names was that of Irving Friedman, freelance wine agent, who is credited with the sale of more than 2,000,000 gallons of port, sherry, and muscat wine, intended for use of the pious.

Friedman, according to the charges presented to the grand jury by Assistant United States District Attorney William F. Waugh, is the leader in the sacramental wine ring. It is said the indictments will name 100 persons within the next two weeks. It was Friedman, suave and agree-

NEW WINE LIST BRINGS INDICTED PERSONS UP TO 53

Federal grand jurors brought the total of those indicted in the sacramental wine scandal to fifty-three yesterday. The jury returned six indictments, naming twenty-four persons, of whom two—Prohibition Agents Rumps and Bennett—were accused in three bills returned last week.

Among the new names was that of Irving Friedman, freelance wine agent, who is credited with the sale of more than 2,000,000 gallons of port, sherry, and muscat wine, intended for use of the pious.

BLAST "GLACIAL BLAH" TO FORM SUBWAY PLANS

"Dig It Now" Aldermen Answer Objectors.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
"Dig-It-Now" aldermen, in getting affairs set for a referendum on subway in February, yesterday ran into the relic of the glacial period. Some one, it appeared, had raised the mud and had dragged out two good old petrified objections to an underground route in the loop. They were: 1. "The floating foundations" argument. 2. The "subsidewalk space" legend.

It may seem strange that in 1924, after a quarter of a century of talk, these two "objections" should still figure in the debate. But in the council committee rooms yesterday they were advanced by a few doubting ones, and the talk sounded much like 1905 all over again.

Fear Harm to Buildings.

From some quarters came loudly expressed fears that if the city build a tunnel, a lot of buildings which rest on "floating foundations" would get wobbly and the city would have an awful time keeping the walls straight.

Others said the city could not build a subway of requisite width on State or Clark street, because some of the buildings are using space below the sidewalks. Both these arguments were couched years ago by the engineers and the lawyers, and the "Dig-It-Nowers" yesterday proceeded again to blow them up.

"Can you beat it?" said Ald. Joseph H. McDonough. "Twenty years of blab and now obstructionists try to pull this old stuff. Every engineering report we have had for years has said the floating foundations offer no real obstacle to subway building."

"Some of the older buildings were erected upon 'floating foundations' which extend only a short depth below the street surface, but the engineers for years have said these can be protected by suitable underpinning. This old argument belongs back in the museum."

City Can Get Space.

Ald. Edward J. Kahnol demolished the subsidewalk argument the moment it was advanced in the council room.

"It's silly," he said. "The law department has passed on that. In the greater part of the loop district the space beneath the sidewalks is occupied by shuttling property."

"Long ago the law department set forth that the city has full right to compel occupants of such space to vacate it, if the city constructs a subway which requires the full width of the street, and that the city will not have to pay any compensation to the shuttling property owners who have to vacate. A subway is coming sure enough this time. Chicago has been asleep long enough."

MELLON MAY ASK REPEAL OF GIFT TAX PROVISIONS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Difficulties in administering the new gift tax are expected to receive attention by Secretary of Treasury Mellon in his annual report to congress.

Secretary Mellon has consistently opposed any tax on gifts on the ground that the law can be easily evaded and that it will not actually accomplish what it is intended to. He may suggest the repeal of the provisions, but if congress turns a deaf ear to such suggestions, as is probable, the treasury will seek to make the law more workable.

First returns under the gift tax will be made when income tax returns are filed next March. These returns will report gifts made during the calendar year 1924. Revenues from the gift tax will be comparatively small, according to treasury estimates.

The purpose of the gift tax is to prevent evasion of high surtaxes by distribution of large fortunes among the members of a family and similarly to prevent evasion of estate taxes by distributions before death.

The gift tax provides for graduated rates ranging from 1 to 40 per cent.

HERRIOT COUP TO AID MAC DONALD AT POLLS FIZZLES

Berlin Lays Labor Fall to Zinoviev Note.

BY HENRY WALES.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
Copyright, 1924, by The Chicago Tribune.
PARIS, Oct. 30.—The French conservative and nationalist press is emitting one united cry of ridicule at Premier Herriot today as a result of the English elections, which brought a sweeping victory for conservatism. The practically unanimous opinion—even among the moderate Liberal groups—is that Premier Herriot made a gross error in recognizing Soviet Russia the day before the British elections.

It is widely asserted in the national press here that M. Herriot delayed the recognition of Russia until the day before the British elections in order to introduce a last minute stroke for Prime Minister MacDonald. Although M. Herriot's mind had been made up for the last month, and the telegram of Russia had been written for a fortnight, it is declared that he purposely arranged matters at Mr. MacDonald's request so the Socialist premier could go to the polls with the moral support of France on his attitude towards the Bolsheviks.

May End Geneva Pact.

Whether this is true or not—the foreign office naturally denies it vigorously—it is certain that M. Herriot's prestige suffered a severe blow today in the defeat of Mr. MacDonald. It is expected here, even by the Socialists, that the Baldwin government will refuse to ratify the Geneva peace protocol, which will, therefore, become a mere wasted effort.

On Nov. 4, when M. Herriot faces parliament again, he will have nothing whatever to offer in way of a solution for France's security problem and protection against Germany. Under the circumstances, it is generally believed here that the Herriot government will soon follow its Socialist counterpart in England into retirement. This collapse is expected to come on the Russian policy, just as Mr. MacDonald's did.

BERLIN IS CALM

BY GEORGE SELDER.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
Copyright, 1924, by The Chicago Tribune.
BERLIN, Oct. 30.—M. Zinoviev, president of the third international, dug the grave for the Labor government in England when he sent a note to the British communists urging a revolution, and his reward is a conservative government. Although Moscow revenged itself on Prime Minister MacDonald, the Soviet must face the most anti-Bolshevik government in Great Britain for years. This is the opinion of the German press, which otherwise has little of interest for Germany in the election.

The Davies plan has taken Germany out of European politics, so that for the first time an upheaval in an entire nation finds little reaction here. Germany does not care whether the Liberals, Labor, or Conservatives rule Great Britain, because Germany's international future is pretty well arranged for through the London pact and it has nothing to lose or gain.

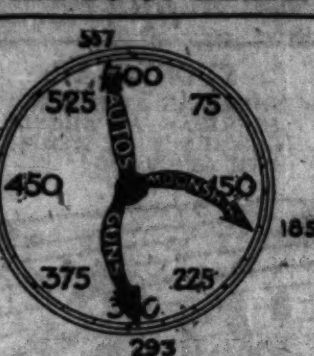

RUSSIA TO PAY SMALL OWNERS OF DEBT BONDS

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
PARIS, Oct. 30.—M. Tchitcherine promises satisfaction for small French owners of Russian bonds and guarantees safety for French commercial enterprises in Russia, in a statement printed today exclusively in Ere Nouvelle, a newspaper closely connected with Premier Herriot.

The bolshevik foreign minister begins with a few caustic remarks about M. Poincare and his policy towards Russia, saying that the former premier was less interested in the large amount of Russian debts held by workmen and small merchants, but cared only for the interests of the great industrialists and bankers.

M. Tchitcherine makes a sharp difference between these two classes of debts, and promises satisfaction only to the "small owners."

FENG ADVANCES TO MEET GROWING ARMIES OF WU

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

(Chicago Tribune Special Service.)
(Copyright, 1924, by The Chicago Tribune.)
PEKING, Oct. 30.—Gen. Feng Yu Hsiang accompanied his remaining 7,500 personal troops to the front today, intending to establish headquarters at Langfang. This will make a total of 30,000 on his front. Wang Hui Ching, lately commanding the second army, who has joined the revolution, also is assembling his troops, and is expected to reach Langfang, east of Peking, tonight, and others following.

Another day has put the Mukden General, Li Ching Lin, within striking distance of Gen. Wu Pei-fu's forces, with indications of the opening of a battle on Sunday, or possibly Saturday.

96 Trains of Troops.
Gen. Wu's control of the telegraphs at Tientsin keeps Peking ignorant of all developments beyond the walls, it being learned only tonight that his movement from the south requires ninety-six trains, which shows that the military governors of Kiangsu, Anhwei, Hupeh, and other provinces are rallying to his side. It is also ascertained that only one division was scattered by the Mukden occupation of Langchow, the remainder getting away in fair shape.

Gen. Chang Tso-lin's army is advancing after taking Shanhaiwan, with the intention of joining the army under Li Ching Lin. All observers agree that an unrelenting war will result when the newly aligned armies lock.

Feng Appeals to Peking.
Before leaving Peking, Gen. Feng issued a new appeal to all government bodies to join in the suppression of militarism, which, he asserted, is the sole purpose of the so-called people's army he leads. He also posted throughout Peking a proclamation offering a reward of $100,000 for the capture of Gen. Wu, with $50,000 to the soldier killing him if he is not taken alive.

We Bring Up Army.

TIENTSIN, Oct. 30.—(By Associated Press.)—Forces loyal to Wu Pei-fu continued to reach here today, principally by water from Chingwangtao. Reports were received that steamers of the Kailan mining administration were assisting in moving the men from Chingwangtao to Tangku, twenty-seven miles from here, where the troops are being landed. Troops at Tangku no longer were staying in their trains today, but were streaming across the country, without waiting for the slow railway transportation, according to reports.

FRIENDS FIND MAN HANGED.
Louis Canada, a cabinetmaker of 11303 Langley-av., hanged himself yesterday. His body was found by two friends who came to see him.

REVOLT AGAINST KEMAL REGIME BREWS IN TURKEY

(Chicago Tribune Special Service.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 30.—A powerful revolt against the leadership of Mustafa Kemal Pasha, president of the Turkish republic, has started.

An outstanding figure in the opposition is former Premier Rasid Bey, great Turkish naval hero, and behind him are such influential leaders as Gen. Refet Pasha, who commanded the Turkish troops in Thrace during the allied occupation; Adnan Bey, former diplomatic agent of Ankara at Constantinople; Bekir Sami and Youssef Kemal Bey, former ambassadors to London; Moustafar Bey, former ambassador to Moscow; and probably a big majority of most influential officers of the Turkish army and navy.

The fight is ostensibly against the cabinet premier, Ismet Pasha, but Ismet being Kemal's representative, the overthrow of Ismet will be a grave blow to Kemal's prestige.

WACKER URGES VOTERS' O. K. FOR BETTER STREETS

Popular approval next Tuesday of bond issues to meet $2,000,000 worth of public benefits assessed against the city in connection with several street improvement projects will obviate the necessity for a material tax increase next year, according to Charles H. Wacker, chairman of the Chicago plan commission.

If the proposals are defeated the assessments must be paid from the city's corporate funds and a proportionate tax increase will result, he pointed out.

Proceeds from the contemplated bond issues would be used to pay the city's share of the cost in the improvement of Michigan avenue, Western avenue, Ogden avenue, Randolph street, 22d street, and Indiana avenue.

Mr. Wacker also approved the $1,000,000 bond issue for extension of the city's street lighting system.

Warmth without weight or bulkiness

Your underwear is the foundation of your costume's success

NARROW LINES, decrees Dame Fashion.

Trim little tailleurs going shopping in the crisp, cold sunshine; slim sports frocks; diaphanous evening gowns—and winter blustering just beyond the window-pane!

How nice they look—so free and gay and careless. You must find a way to wear them without showing the world a pinched blue nose!

MORE than a million women do wear them—in snug smooth-fitting comfort—over Carter's Knit Underwear.

Whatever the mode demands for daytime or evening wear, you will find a style in Carter's to correspond.

Warm, yet light and supple, Carter's follows perfectly the contour of your figure. For the original of each style and size is fitted on living models, exactly as your frocks are fitted—adjusted with expert precision to give plenty of room with no unnecessary fullness.

Marvelously elastic—keep their shape

The beautiful Carter fabric is knit of selected long-thread yarns on multi-needle machines. That is why it is so soft and fine, and so extraordinarily elastic that it keeps its snug, new shapeliness through seasons of active wear and innumerable tubbings.

No wonder well-dressed women throughout the country prefer the correct grooming of Carter's for themselves and for their children as well. Carter sizes and quality are so reliable that, as one woman says—"You can order your family's whole winter supply in the twinkling of an eye."

All weights of cotton, wool, and silk. See Carter's the next time you go shopping. William Carter Co., 627 Highland Avenue, Needham Heights (Boston Dist.). Mills also at Framingham and Springfield, Massachusetts.

You can keep comfortably warm in Carter's without sacrifice of slender charm. A very distinctive feature is the shirred elasticated waist which keeps the back securely closed and gives the smooth flat line your newest frocks demand.

Style 18A (left figure) Style 19A (right figure)
Carter's follows the contour of your figure without binding or bulging and keeps its exquisite fit and softness after tubbing.

Style 19A (girl) Style 15 (boy)

Old Fashioned Girl Is Puzzled Over the Kiss Problem

BY DORIS BLAKE

A rather old fashioned young girl was sitting in a mah jong party the other afternoon. The rest of the crowd were young married women, decidedly fashionable.

Conversation buzzed around the affair of a youngster in the neighborhood whose engagement had just been broken. The man in the case was reported to have remarked that the girl was too rapid for him. "The girl all was kissing," he paraphrased, for public benefit. As impossible as it seems, she doesn't let the boys kiss her beforehand.

"Men make me sick," one of the women cried. "What do they expect? How on earth is a girl to get engaged if she doesn't let the boys kiss her beforehand?"

Later the rather old fashioned young girl asked me: "Do you believe what that woman said, that you have to get engaged? I always have an awful good time with the boys and they take me around a lot, but I'm just not there when it comes to necking parties, and they know it. There's only one boy in particular I'm crazy about, but he doesn't seem to feel anything but liking for me. Later he has been running around with a girl I know to be the last word in romance. Sometimes I wonder if I were more like her—she didn't finish, and the conversation became general again.

"That married woman at the mah jong table had spoken lightly enough about something I knew she didn't know much about. She had never gone with but one man before she married, and that was a marriage her parents had arranged as soon as she was out of school. She had simply thrown out the remark to convey a sophisticated pose, regardless of what her words might light and whom they might hit.

There may be some men who marry girls who permit all sorts of liberties, but they marry in spirit of liberality, not because of them. By that I mean they marry because they are so infatuated with the girl they can't help themselves. And frequently they are not the sort of men worth marrying, anyway.

To let a man kiss you by way of egging him on to matrimony is dangerous business.

In the first place, stone age as it may sound, man never is and never has been overly anxious to have what he can get too easily. It is "the nature of the beast," as Robert Burns once put it.

Putting it plainly, there are certain favors which go with engagements as well as with marriage, and if a girl gives them ahead of time the chances are the best will be none before the man gets around to offering "to love and to support" the rest of his natural lifetime.

There is another danger, too. In the beginning a man is usually more ardent than a girl. This doesn't remain a permanent state with him unless the girl is extremely clever. Engaged girls and married women often lose a man by being overly generous.

It is a natural instinct of men to want what is difficult. And while the girl who is "easy" may attract more quickly in some cases, she doesn't last so long.

As one pretty engaged girl said to me, "It's easy enough to attract a man, but getting him to propose—that's different."

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON

Mushroom Witchery.

If we get right down to grips in our thinking about mushrooms—which grow so magically from the soil, it is easy to get into a mental state of believing in their witchery, for at any rate the play of Halloween time. Wiped or washed, peeled and sliced and cooked gently in butter till watery looking, and then added to a little chicken in a thick gravy, we get a dish of superior delicacy and palatability, but they may be used in the same way with other meats, with a gravy, or in just gravy, and add charm and quality. Or if we are mushroom epicures, the plain cooked mushroom will give a thrill.

Simplest broiled mushrooms—Put clean mushrooms on a stone china or earthenware saucer or plate, cap wide down season with just a little butter and salt—too much butter on broiled or baked mushrooms is far from agreeable—put in a broiling oven until the juices start from the mushrooms, remove from oven, cover closely, let stand five minutes, and serve.

Baked market mushrooms—Wash, scald with dispatch, and peel caps, save the stems for sauce—butter a baking pan, put the mushroom caps in it, top down, sprinkle them lightly with salt and any other seasoning you like and dot with tiny bits of butter. There should be no suggestion of grease when the mushrooms are cooked. Add a little cream if you choose, and bake in a rather hot oven for ten minutes. Serve on toast or as you will.

Stewed mushrooms—Prepare mushrooms and cook gently in a single layer in a closely covered pan, using them either a little water or meat stock highly seasoned. A little cream may be added when the water has been partly absorbed and, at last, a little salt and butter bring out flavor.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

No More Fibs.
I am cured of telling fibs—gray slightly grayish, or even white ones. My most embarrassing moment did it. The other day my daughter, Jean Ann, and I went to call on an acquaintance who had a new baby, and I was sitting about in my mind for something to take her. I remembered a tiny pair of mittens, cunningly hand embroidered, in a white box in the bureau drawer. Jean Ann was much too big for them now, and she never had worn them.

"O, the darling little mittens," cried my friend, and read aloud the card: "With love from Jean Ann."

"You made them yourself, of course?"

"Er—O yes!" I replied.

Then, to my horror, as she picked them up out of the box, a card came to view reading: "Love to Jean Ann from Aunt Winnie."

Unhappily.

About two score of us were gathered together in the hall, waiting for the meeting of our society to begin. My niece, a schoolgirl, staying with me, was deficient in grammar and welcomed corrections of her speech, which I always promptly made.

One of the club members raised her voice and said, "Can you folks guess what I done last Tuesday?"

"Did," was the corrective word that slipped at too clearly and completely from my lips before I thought.

A second of silence ensued, then, blushing, she said, "Well, all right then, did," and went on with her remarks.

But I had taken all the joy out of the afternoon session for myself.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Children Who Are Toxemic.
"What happens to the toys of which children have tired? So many of our unfortunate little ones would enjoy them, old or new, and we will be glad to call for them anywhere in the city."

E. J. A. makes this plea for one of the Chicago day nurseries.

Vacuum Cleaner to Give.
"I have an electric vacuum cleaner which I gladly offer to any one who can make arrangements to call for it."

What a splendid offer for the busy housewife!

Rush Street Home Fitted for Return of Harold McCormick

BY PANDORA.

The great house on the east side of Rush street, whose petticoats reach from Erie street to Huron, has an expectant air about it. Paint and paper, chandeliers and vases, have been thoroughly applied to its interior, and it radiates a welcome for its owner when he returns in a day or so to this, his native home.

Harold McCormick is coming back from Europe. I hear that he sailed for America—alone—on the 25th of the month, which means that he'll be here in ample time for the excitement of Tuesday next, election day.

While her husband makes this swift trip to Chicago, the pictureque Ganna Walaka McCormick remains in Paris, in her beautiful house on the Rue Lavoisier, which has become of late quite the center of the Polish colony in that city. She is passionately devoted to her fellow countrymen, I am told, and spends much of her time aiding and cheering them.

The Harold McCormicks traveled through Europe during the summer, making a long stay in Carlsbad, and then journeyed to Berlin, where Miss Ganna sang.

Atropos Paris and the numerous McCormick clan leave a bit of this morning about Miss Elsie McCormick. She plans to return in February to that fashion Mecca of the world, leaving her place at the Rue Lavoisier, which has become of late quite the center of the Polish colony in that city.

There is a little gravel terrace, and over a grassy slope, a garden, and the apartment itself boasts a room in which Masterlinck is said to have lived and written "The Bee." Mrs. Winterbotham has filled the different rooms with interesting and artistic bits of furniture and the ensemble makes one year to have it for one's very own.

Those who have made reservations for the opening dinner of the Association of Arts and Industries at the Arts club this evening include Mrs. Oliver Dennett Crow, Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson Pease, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Dr. and Mrs. Otto Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. McChesney Barclay, and Mr. and Mrs. Henri Farver.

Mrs. Henry Bartholomew will preside at a luncheon to be given at the Woman's Athletic club by the woman's auxiliary of Grant hospital on Tuesday.

Various committees will report on the campaign for new buildings for the hospital. Mrs. Charles D. Bolling will assist Mrs. Bartholomew.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster and their debutante daughter, Miss Sarah Brewster, are now in their apartment at 222 E. Walton place for the winter.

Among the Chicagoans at Virginia Hot Springs are Col. and Mrs. Francis T. A. Junkin, Mrs. Frank Rehm and her daughter, Miss Louise Rehm, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Boswell, and the Alexander H. Revells.

Mrs. Julia Laroussini and Mrs. Olga Wexler of New York, mother and sister, respectively, of Mrs. Emanuel J. Henn of the Ambassador hotel, have arrived in Chicago.

Tea Tables Rival Art Exhibits in Beauty at Institute Reception

The halls and galleries of the Chicago Art Institute resounded with the exchange of greetings and opinions of more than 3,500 persons yesterday afternoon on the occasion of its forty-sixth annual reception and the opening of the thirty-seventh annual exhibition of American paintings and sculpture. The social aspect of the affair rivaled the artistic.

Attracting as much attention and admiration as the prize winning paintings and sculpture was the table provided over by the Antiquarian society, the Fortnightly, and the Friends of American Art in the Potter Palmer gallery. On the long festive table was a handsome Chinese runner of orange velvet embroidered in gold, surrounded by candelabra with slender black tapers, and two pyramids of fruit and vegetables. The silver tea service was of heavy Old English ware and the women who took turns in pouring sat in high backed heavily carved chairs.

Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Edward Harris Bowser, Mrs. John Borden, Mrs. Theodore Shaw, Mrs. Philip Otis, Mrs. Carroll Sudler, Miss Clara Gilbert, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. William R. Linn, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, and Mrs. Edward B. Butler were in attendance.

The Chicago Woman's club, the Municipal Art league, and the Chicago Woman's Aid received and poured at a long oval table decorated with a huge Dutch silver bowl filled with yellow chrysanthemums and roses. Mrs. George E. Watson, Mrs. Albert E. Halsted, Mrs. Alfred C. Tyler, Mrs. L. Sturges, Mrs. William G. Grower, Mrs. A. M. Barclay, Mrs. Harvey A. Tyler, Miss Lena May McCauley, Mrs. Mortimer H. BRITISHER LIKES CHEERS

IOWA CITY, Ia., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Malcolm Macdonald, son of the British premier, who arrived here today, declared he was fond of American football, and especially fond of American cheering. He saw Drake paste Oklahoma and declared "I am very keen for it. I liked the cheering. In England we could not know what you mean by a cheer leader or by organized cheering. Every one cheers for both sides. Your systematized yell adds a great deal to the game that we do not have."

BY WALTER ECKERSALL

With intersectional football games having a tendency to show the caliber of football as played in the various sections of the country, it is extremely likely more such struggles will be staged for next fall.

Games this year between eleven of the middle west and east show the game in this section is superior to that of the year at least to the football played along the Atlantic seaboard.

The victories of Notre Dame over the Army and Princeton, the defeat of the Navy by Marquette and Chicago's triumph over Brown prove that the game in the middle west is further advanced than in the east.

Fans Like Intersectional Flavor. Victory of Missouri over Chicago early in the season was a decisive blow for the Missouri Valley conference. Missouri is now a strong contender for honors in the valley association, but it will be put to the test tomorrow when Nebraska is met at Lincoln.

While games between sectional rivals have always created a lot of interest and will be popular in the future, the fans like to see new opponents. They relish struggles between eleven of different sections, and indications are a number of such combats will be staged next fall. The east feels the same way about the situation but has always shown a little hesitancy to come west for return games. With the middle western eleven showing superiority this fall, the east should be made to come into the section to regain its lost prestige.

Notre Dame Popular Team. Michigan has already set the pace in slating intersectional games for 1925. The Wolverines will meet the Navy in home and home encounters and these battles should be among the most colorful of the year. Notre Dame will undoubtedly play the Army again and may go into the east to meet Harvard and Pennsylvania. The South Bend institution has trouble slating games with worthy opponents in this section and cannot be blamed for taking on the best in the east. These games give Notre Dame's eleven a world of prestige and it is now safe to say Notre Dame is one of the most popular traveling eleven, which appears in the east.

Coach Stage of Chicago has always been in favor of intersectional struggles, providing the trips were not too long. This is shown by the number of such struggles decided in the past, and although nothing has come out of the Midwest regarding a game with an eastern team in 1925, Chicago may slate a game with one of the leaders of the section.

Vandy Plays Gophers. Minnesota will engage Vanderbilt at Minneapolis on Nov. 23 in an interesting contest, despite the fact the Gophers are out of the running for the western conference honors. The game may lead to friendly relations between the two institutions, with the result games may be played every year.

Reports have come out of Columbus that Ohio state may meet one of the eastern teams, and it is a certainty Illinois with its massive stadium would play to capacity if one of the best in the east was brought into the middle west. As all indications point to Illinois having another potent rival next season, Coach Zuppke may not overlook the opportunity to match his skill and team with one of the best along the Atlantic coast.

Fans May Play California. California and Pennsylvania are scheduled to meet at Berkeley on New Year's day in a game which will attract a lot of interest. If the quakers win over Lafayette tomorrow and California wins from Southern California on the same day, each will be in a commanding position to be rated among the strongest in its respective section. At any rate, there appears to be a strong feeling for intersectional games, providing they do not take the players away from the classrooms too long and do not prevent the meeting of teams which have been traditional sectional rivals for years.

FOOTBALL CAMPS

OHIO.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Coach Wilson sent his Ohio State gridders through another light session today as a physical work was concerned. The length of the workout, however, made up for what it lacked in hard work, the varsity men running through new plays in tag scrimmage against the scrubs. Because he had to take an exam Myers Clark, the only full back who is not suffering from an injury, was not in the lineup today. Big Tim McCarthy officiated at full back, the fifth position he has played so far this season. McCarthy started at tackle, was switched to guard, then center, half back, and now full back.

PRINCETON.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Princeton football was held for five minutes today while Head Coach Roper pronounced a brief eulogy of Percy Haughton, and then the eleven stood silently with bowed heads as a mark of respect to the great Harvard coach who had died last night. The offense to be used against Harvard got under way today, with a long session against the Harvard players as demonstrated by the Quakers. There was no contact in the formations which Harvard showed against Dartmouth.

YALE.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Head Coach Tad Jones today ordered scrimmage practice for the regular, with the coaches had planned all week to limit actual football to the Tuesday and Wednesday sessions. While the step was taken in the teeth of an announcement from Princeton that scrimmage practice is over for the season, and of injuries to Lemuel O'Neil and Ben Jones, the reason was raised the spirit and dash of the entire squad. The team was in excellent condition when the varsity morning two fall in the halves which were limited to ten minutes.

MARQUETTE TO ASK WISCONSIN FOR 1925 GAME

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Marquette university will invite Wisconsin to play at the new Hilltop stadium in 1925, according to William Coffey, chairman of the Hilltop athletic board, who has announced that an invitation for a game would be sent to Tom Jones before the meeting of conference coaches and athletic directors in Chicago early in December. If Wisconsin is unable to come here, according to Coffey, Marquette will accept the game at Camp Randall.

This will be the first Marquette attempt in two years to renew relations on the football field with the state university. The last game between the two schools was played in 1919, when Wisconsin sneaked off with a 13 to 0 victory. Attempts were made to schedule games in 1920, 1921, and 1922, but Wisconsin refused to cook an attentive ear.

VALPARAISO AND COLUMBIA READY FOR FRAY TODAY

DUBUQUE, Ia., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—With both eleven pronounced in superb shape today, Columbia college and Valparaiso university, strong contenders for the Western Interstate conference grid title, will clash here tomorrow in the feature attraction of Columbia's homecoming celebration. Outlined about fifteen points in the game, Columbia will rely on a speedy open attack. Coach Eddie Anderson announced today.

Dean proposes to stage the meet in the new $3,000,000 Grant park stadium located on the lake front.

City Open Handball Title Play Starts on Nov. 12

Nov. 12 has been named as the day for the Chicago open handball tournament to start at engine company 25, 27-29 East South Water street, for the Charles A. Barrett cup. Many entries have been received in the two classes of play. Capt. Mike Coffey, Chief Marshal, Chief Tommy Mahr and J. Moran of the Chicago fire department are the latest entrants.

Culver, Ind., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—The annual football clash between Culver and Kemper Military School teams here Saturday is expected to attract a record crowd. Coach Peck of Culver has his team on edge.

OLD GRADS POUR IN FOR N. U. HOMECOMING

Northwestern's homecoming celebration starts today when the Indiana Jinx which has cast a spell over Coach Thistlethwaite's men for two years will be burned in effigy at a student's mass-meeting on the campus tonight. Old grads were arriving on every train yesterday for the homecoming festivities.

A parade of students and alumni through the streets of Evanston will precede the fire. A hearse, a queer looking affair, with glassed sides, will lead the parade. At 8 o'clock in the evening the jinx will be hurled from the hearse and thrown into the huge fire.

Stage Big Program.

A program of many events will be staged tomorrow. A parade ending at the football field will be a feature. The football will begin at 11:15. Fraternities and societies have entered more than fifty floats, six of which will be chosen to be swung about the field before the game.

Besides these events, the Purple cross-country team will meet Purdue at 10:15 a. m. tomorrow, while the conference champion swimmers will give an exhibition. Fully 4,000 grads are expected to attend.

Drill Behind Closed Doors.

Practice yesterday was held behind closed doors, and Coach Thistlethwaite refused to permit any one to watch the workout on varsity field today. Indiana's team will arrive today and work out on Northwestern field this afternoon.

HOOSIERS ARE HERE

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Thirty football players, coaches, trainers and physicians made up the Indiana party that entrained tonight for Evanston, where the Crimson will meet Northwestern Saturday in the second western conference game for both teams. Coaches Ingram and Sundrum expect to have two teams out on the Purple field tomorrow afternoon lining up for drill. Though no special train will be run to the game

The Burberry Tradition

IN ENGLAND "Burberry" means "overcoat" as clearly as "Kodak" means "camera" in America. It takes time and a tradition of skilled workmanship for a name to reach such a point.

That is why Burberrys already had an enviable reputation when they were first imported here twenty-one years ago.

Since that time English designs have been widely copied in this country, and "English Overcoat" has come to be almost a misleading term. But Burberrys are English in every detail—fabric, design and tailoring. Men of sound taste buy them in every continent of the world. They set an international standard.

Percy Haughton Laid to Rest with His Old Friends at Bier

Boston, Mass., Oct. 30.—The funeral today of Percy D. Haughton, founder of a football system at Harvard college and coach of that game at Harvard, Cornell and Columbia, was marked by the simplest of services.

The congregation that filled St. Paul's cathedral was representative of the many interests of the man whom they mourned, players whom he had guided to greatness, mothers of men who had been the better for his coaching, deans, and delegations from colleges that he had served, classmates at Harvard, fellow officers in the army, friends of high social standing, army, friends of business and in professional baseball.

Mike Sends Roses.

The altar from which Bishop William Lawrence read the simple service, psalms and prayers of the Episcopal burial service was banked with flowers. The Rev. Sherrard Billings of Groton assisted in the services.

Michael Benihan, who carries the water pail for Harvard football teams and turns the sod in the stadium, sent his spray of red roses with "sincere sympathy from his old friend Mike."

Included in the numerous floral tributes was one from the surviving members of the football "group of seven." This "group of seven" names that are immortal in Harvard football history, had been said by Haughton to be "the halo of my football career."

Members of the class of 1915, who won positions on their freshman team and never relinquished them in four years of play, they sent "with deepest sympathy and in loving memory of their three years of wonderful association and inspiration," a large spray of jack roses. The card here the signature of Charles E. Brickley, Huntington R. Hardwick, Wallace H. Trumbull, T. Jefferson Coolidge, F. J. Brandlee Jr., and Malcolm J. Logan. The seventh member of the group, Stanley J. Penneck, has died.

Flag in Procession.

As honorary pallbearers, Robert J. Fisher, who succeeded Haughton as head coach at Harvard, and Dr. Paul Whittington, who succeeds him at Col umbia, served with others who were associated with him in college, on the gridiron or in business. A surplined choir chanted hymns.

There was no eulogy, but Bishop Lawrence in reading prayers selected five as most appropriate. In the procession, the American flag was carried after the clergy and before the bier in observance of Maj. Haughton's world war service.

Bloomington Preps Book Game with Waite High

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Bloomington high school football team closed a contract today to play the Waite prep team at Toledo, O., on Nov. 8. A large delegation from here will accompany the squad.

HERE IS THE HISTORY OF LITTLE BROWN JUG

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 30.—[By Associated Press.]—Accompanied by twenty-eight football players, four coaches, three trainers, and several managers, a "little brown jug" that is neither little nor brown and really not much of a jug, left Ann Arbor late today for Minneapolis to have a painting job done.

It won't be much of a job; just the lettering of the names of two Big Ten schools and two numbers on its already much lettered sides. But before it can be done the best brain and brawn of two great universities must meet in the new Minnesota stadium Saturday and there, before a shouting, colorful crowd, write the inscription that will go on the half maroon, half blue surface of the jug.

A rich tradition forms the mantle in which the contested crockery is wrapped. Carried originally to Minneapolis by the 1903 Michigan football team as a modest water container, it had disappeared when that memorable game—a 6-4 tie—was over. Later it was found chained to the floor of the Minnesota gymnasium and Michigan was told she could get it back only by beating the Gophers on the gridiron. This Michigan did in 1909, after a long lapse in football relations, holding the jug until 1913 (the teams did not meet in the interim), when Minnesota took it again. Michigan got it back in 1920.

A husky band will defend the jug Saturday. Virtually the same lineup that trampled Wisconsin last week will take the field, with the probable exception of Capt. Herb Steger, quarter back. Should Steger be kept out of the game Rockwell is expected to be switched to quarter back.

PLAY SOCCER TODAY

High school soccer teams representing Michigan and Illinois will clash in a match which began this afternoon at 4 o'clock on Harrison field. The south team has been largely on the outcome of the game.

More Excitement

It was a wild night, but which may be the race closes tomorrow night. Luckily there were no serious injuries, and the rivalry in going through the riders and passing one turns.

MAROONS PUT IN LONG DRILL OF AERIAL ATTACK

Strengthening of their aerial attack kept the Maroons busy yesterday. The early part of their last hard practice before the encounter with Purdue tomorrow at Stage field. After dark, the team had a hard time to see the ball, the varsity chased the freshmen off the practice field where, with the flood lights turned on, they worked late perfecting other modes of offense.

Tomorrow's game is rather promising in some respects. One thing certain is that Purdue is a formidable team against Chicago. The Maroons are boasting a better team than they were early have, are set to win if it is not a matter of strength. They are more confident too, than they were when they came to the Maroons.

Attack a Mystery.

The offensive which Coach Haughton will open against Purdue is rather a mystery. Whether he will utilize the open plays, particularly passes which he has developed, or will rely more on straight football can't be said. His high caliber line, it is probable, will lead Harry Thomas and Graham Kerwein of the tackle and will use his fighting full backs, Mackin, McCarty, and Francis, on drive through the guards and center.

The opening of tomorrow's game has been advanced a half hour and will be at 2 o'clock, instead of at 1:30. The remainder of the game this season will be started at the earlier hour.

PURDUE LEAVES TODAY

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—The Purdue football squad, being light workout this afternoon in waiting up its preparations for the game with Chicago on Saturday. The squad will leave tomorrow morning for the Windy city. The following will make up the Purdue party:

Hogan, Bolan, Spencer, Capt. O'Connell, Mieran, Williams, Fulman, Tuck, Harrison, Don Monroe, Harber, O'Neil, Snow, Whistler, Debusch, Cunningham, Correll, Ledy, Fisher, Satter, Worth, Houston, Schotte, Coaches Fisher, Deane, Trainers Lawler and Mann, Manager J. A. Kilgore, and Manager Sloan.

It is expected that the team makers will hold a short practice session on Stage field Friday afternoon. Bahr and Bolan, crippled, left the team in the interim, when Minnesota took it again. Michigan got it back in 1920.

A husky band will defend the jug Saturday. Virtually the same lineup that trampled Wisconsin last week will take the field, with the probable exception of Capt. Herb Steger, quarter back. Should Steger be kept out of the game Rockwell is expected to be switched to quarter back.

LIGHT SELLING ENOUGH TO SEND GRAINS LOWER

BY CHARLES MICHAELS

Wednesday's bulge in the grain markets reduced the local short interest and resulted in a weakened technical position. It took but relatively little selling to start values downward with the December deliveries leading the decline, and while there was a fair rally from the inside figures, the close was at net losses of 1 1/2¢ on wheat, 1/4¢ on corn, 1/4¢ on oats, and 1/4¢ on rye.

December wheat, which sold recently at 5 1/2¢ under May, dropped to 4 1/2¢ and had considerable influence on local sentiment, because it was the only wheat in the spread was 9 1/2¢. Winnipeg was 1 1/2¢ lower. Liverpool made a poor response to the upturn in America the previous day and gained only 1/4¢, although an advance in sterling made the actual gain around 1/2¢.

December sold down to 1 1/4¢, but at 1 1/4¢ and under there was good buying by houses with export connections, which absorbed the offerings of local traders and the finish was at 1 1/4¢. May finished at 1 1/4¢, 1/4¢, and July at 1 1/4¢.

Corn benefits with wheat. Corn shows a tendency to break away from the action of the wheat market, but the trade was too light to offset fully the decline in that grain and made a lower close with December at 1 1/4¢, 1/4¢, May at 1 1/4¢, 1/4¢, and July at 1 1/4¢. Disappointing buying returns continue to come from various parts of the belt.

These cars of new corn were received here. One car of No. 2 yellow sold at 8 1/2¢, and two cars of sample grade at 7 1/2¢. St. Louis had a car of new No. 2 yellow which brought 8 1/2¢. Old corn was in rather slow demand, with No. 2 mixed 10¢ under December, with No. 2 yellow December to 10¢ over.

Oats reflected the action of other grains and, while firmer early, came off grain and the last. Sales of 50,000 bu were made to go to stock.

Little demand for rye. Provisions were rather dull. Packers sold a little November lard and cotton oil interests sold January and May. Rye came toward the last on buying of November by a packer who was regarded as being short and sold at 2 1/4¢, higher to 1 1/4¢ lower. Ribs were unchanged to 1 1/4¢ lower. Ribs were unchanged to 1 1/4¢ lower.

LESS HAY OFFERED

Lighter offerings of good and plenty of poor hay was a feature. Shippers of poor hay are said to have lost $2,000,000.00 per ton of loss. Dealers say country buyers should work on wider margins in buying the different grades. Arrivals were 15 cars timothy and clover, 2 cars alfalfa, 1 car packing, 1 car each of rye, oat, and wheat straw. Prices follow:
